OPENING LEGATIONS

Canada is proposing to open two new legations in the near future, one at Brussels and one at Amsterdam. These ports are places with which Canada does business and where she might do much more business. Commerce has to be looked after if we are to become a trading nation and if we are to find a market for our products.

IN THE ASHCAN

"Bennett and his policies are in the political ashcan," says an Ottawa correspondent when writing about the new leader, Dr. Manion. Before Mr. Bennett left Ottawa after relinquishing the leadership, he did not even receive a courtesy call from the man who stepped into his shoes.

It is suggested that there may possibly be some sort of loose alliance being framed among Premiers Duplessis, Hepburn and Dr. Manion. This may or may not come to fruition but if it does it will be a curious group. It seems that Mr. Hepburn does not like the leadership of Prime Minister Mackenzie King who blocked his plan to market power in the United States. The political situation is that anything or nothing may happen during the next two years and, in the meantime, the Tories are greatly heartened over the situation, which may not be exactly to their liking but is better than having to be out of the picture altogether, as they have been during the past two years.

GIVING LEAD

When Premier T. D. Pattullo was minister of lands in the British Columbia government he saw the possibilities of selling ready fabricated houses in the Old Country and one of the attractions of the British Empire exhibit at Wembley in 1923 was a house built and finished with British Columbia timber. Great publicity was given it at that time but it was not followed up and no business was done as a result. The Victoria evening paper draws attention to this in a recent issue.

However, the foundations were laid and today everyone is talking about the possibilities of building wooden homes in England and Scotland after the Canadian model. The wood proposed to be used is cedar, which has the longest life of all British Columbia woods. It is expected that considerable business will result from the present drive.

Breast Stroke Fills Hollows

NEW YORK, July 29.—(CP)—There are two swimming strokes women should harp on if they want to get the most benefit from summer swimming, says Arlie McGovern, New York physical director and instructor.

One is the breast stroke. The other is called the "back floating crawl." It's like the overhead stroke only one swims on one's back instead of on one's stomach. He remarks that the regular crawl is not a woman's stroke. He says it is a contest stroke and far too strenuous.

The breast stroke is especially recommended for the business woman who has developed hollows around her neck and shoulders. It will help fill in the hollows, develop her bust and make her look much better in that evening gown she bought to take on her vacation. The same stroke will help the business woman's housewife sister get rid of that dowager's hump that's been developing slowly but surely through the winter. And it will be good for her younger sister who has never quite gotten over a tendency toward the "debutante slouch."

The back floating crawl helps the abdominal muscles. Exercising and strengthening those muscles is very important. Mr. McGovern says many women are as much as four or five inches out of line in that region through lack of proper exercise and proper clothing.

PAPER TOWN IS INVITED

Plans Under Way For Football Series at End of August

At a special meeting of the Prince Rupert Football Association last evening the matter of inviting the Ocean Falls Football team to play in Prince Rupert for the Northern British Columbia Cup was considered and it was agreed to invite the Ocean Falls team to play a two game series. The dates suggested are August 25 and 26. The first of these is the Prince Rupert Port Day and it was felt that a football game might bring not only the players from the paper town but also some of their supporters. Some of these might even take part in the events planned by the Port Day committee. As the football game would be played in evening it would not interfere with the arrangements already planned by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The second game might be played on the Friday evening.

Further arrangements will depend upon the suitability of the date as far as the Ocean Falls players are concerned. A meeting will be held as soon as an answer is received from them.

Last evening's league game between the Canadian Legion and the Merchants football team was postponed on account of inclement weather. The Association decided to try to have the game played this evening but, if it will not be possible to do this, the teams will meet on Tuesday evening next, the match to be for four points. This will enable the Mobley Cup competition to be completed. Should the Merchants and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve be then equal in points a play-off game will be arranged at a mutually suitable date between these two teams.

Gilguly Cup Series

The Gilguly Cup series was then considered and the following is the revised draw, the first game to be played on Thursday of next week:

August 4—Navy vs. Merchants.
August 9—Legion vs. Navy.
August 11—Merchants vs. Legion.
August 16—Navy vs. Merchants.
August 18—Legion vs. Navy.
August 23—Merchants vs. Legion.

GUARDING FORESTS

OTTAWA, July 29: (CP)—The Junior Forest Wardens, youth movement, organized eight years ago by the Canadian Forestry Association, numbers more than 10,000 boys pledged to save the forest resources of the nation.

Thus far the majority of these volunteer wardens belong to British Columbia but effective groups are at work on the prairies, in Eastern Canada and Newfoundland. Chosen for their qualities of leadership, knowledge of woodcraft and willingness to serve without reward, these patriotic juveniles have already written a proud record of practical service.

Hundreds of incipient forest fires have first been detected by them and either extinguished or promptly brought to the attention of official fire rangers. Many groups have started reforesting waste areas or have beautified vacant lots by tree-planting. Others have attached themselves to local fire rangers travelling with them on their daily patrol by trail and river. One boy of 13, living in a settler's cabin heard a passerby speak of a fire outbreak and, saddling his pony, galloped eight miles to inform the nearest ranger.

Recognizing boyish fondness for some sort of uniform, the Canadian Forestry Association arranged to supply several thousand outfits comprising red shirts, green berets and scarfs. Frequently hats and leggings are added. A large medalion across the shirt announces the boy's identification with forest protection. During heavy tourist influx, Junior Forest Wardens at points of entry warn travellers to take precautions against forest destruction by extinguishing campfires and lighting matches and to talk on their meaning which added very greatly to their value. He spoke as one who knew well what he was talking about. Those who attended came away imbued with the importance of the industry and the desirability of seeing that Prince Rupert did her proper part in encouraging mining in the country which the city serves.

VALUE OF MINING CLARIFIED

Mr. Mitchell said he had recently travelled through the interior and he found the complaint general that the farmers had no market for their products. A similar condition had existed in northern Ontario and Quebec and then the mining districts of those two provinces were developed and today the farmers are all prosperous and when farmers are prosperous the whole country is prosperous. So it would be in Central British Columbia. Let the mining get well under way and there would be a good market for everything. The northern half of British Columbia was just as rich potentially as the south. All that was needed was the energy and persistence properly applied to make that part of the country flourish. Conditions were just as favorable as they had been in the south.

Speaking of the mining industry generally, the speaker said that twenty thousand people make a living directly from the industry which was the second largest in the province. From this it would seem that the industry with which he was dealing and pictures of which he was about to show was no mean one.

Like Fairy Story

Mr. Mitchell then showed the pictures, covering every important mining camp in British Columbia where there are producing mines. One of the outstanding features of the first reel was the series showing Zeballos as it was less than two years ago and what it is today. He pictured the development of the producing mines, the building of the roads and trails, the building of the town and the shipping of the rich ore which is making Vancouver Island famous. It was like a story from fairyland, only behind all the activity was seen the hard work, persistence, scientific minds and intense earnestness of the men who brought it about.

The only mine in northern or Central British Columbia shown was the Silbak-Premier and Big Missouri, the others including the great Sullivan mine which was the chief reason for the existence of the Trail smelter, the Copper Mountain mine operated by Granby and dozens of smaller operations in different parts of the province including the Cariboo and Bridge River Mines. He also showed the actual operation, how the ore was dug, shipped, smelted and the gold bricks poured. The story was most fascinating. The set of pictures was a piece of work well done and a great credit to the man who took them, pieced them together into a splendid series of sequences to make a complete whole of a most inspiring nature and very educative.

F. A. MacCallum, president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, was in the chair and at the close spoke most appreci-

Little Smithers Girl Succumbs

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLean Passes Away

SMITHERS, July 29.—The community was saddened Thursday morning when it was learned that the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLean had passed away in the Smithers Hospital. The little girl was taken to the hospital two days previous suffering from appendicitis and underwent an operation. She failed to make a recovery and death took place.

The child was the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Anger who are very well known throughout the north, having been pioneers in Hazelton, Smithers and Prince Rupert.

Sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents and grand-parents who held the child in such great devotion.

believe this was not the case of the substance taken from the dog club root. However, they made claims for it and they realized the most critical work was yet to be done. He had not realized many people suffered from disease. Some of the letters he received were most pathetic. He could say nothing as to the outcome of the experiments. They were still going on and he hoped the result would prove of value to the world. He said the great credit for the work was due to Large as he had been the most spirit in it and never let up, seemed to tire.

At the conclusion of the speaker was thanked by President Cullen, his informative address. The visitor at the luncheon in addition to the speaker was Olof Hanson M.P.
