ARRAY OF OPPOSITION

There is a gallant array of opposition to the proposals of British Columbia and Alberta that justice be done those provinces in the matter of railway rates. It is powerful opposition, but right is on the side of the west and this must eventually win, so why not now?

PRINCE RUPERT'S TAXES

Prince Rupert's tax rate is not as high as a great many cities of British Columbia. The cities having higher rates are Chilliwack, Cranbrook, Greenwood, Merritt, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Port Alberni, Port Coquitlam, Prince George and Slokan. A number of others approach very closely to the Prince Rupert rate, among them being North Vancouver, Rossland, Victoria, Alberni and Kamloops.

Burnaby heads the list of municipalities with a rate of 62 mills on the dollar.

RUSSIA'S ARMY

There is so much conjecture about Russia's fighting strength that it might not be out of place here to mention that her army numbers approximately a million and a quarter of trained soldiers and added to that is about five million reserves. Nearly a million young men are being called up for training for two years commencing in January next. These youths have already received preliminary training. The soldiers are well fed and are paid about thirty cents a day.

The army is enthused with the idea that the capitalistic countries are ready to pounce upon them, but that the next war in which they are involved must be one to establish the rule of the proletariat everywhere.

Usually the friends of Russia in Canada are those who object to war; but it must be noted carefully that Russia is preparing for war, and is feeding her young men with the war idea.

A QUESTION OF COST

An important subject under consideration at the Tenth Assembly of the League of Nations was that of the yearly budget. The sum required for next year in round figures amounts to $5,700,000.

There are still quite a few scoffers who take delight in trying to belittle the efforts of the League in the interests of world peace. These no doubt will suggest that this is a mighty big sum for a big talking pow-wow which has little practical effect in world politics.

The unprejudiced observer, however, will be of quite a different opinion. He knows that not only has the League done more for international peace than any agency devised by man, but that it has been active in actually preventing ten European wars since 1918. That is a fine record, but it is not the whole story. The League has created a new atmosphere in international diplomacy and by bringing together the world's greatest statesmen in annual conference has been the chief agent in limiting to the minimum that secret diplomacy which for centuries has been a potent source of distrust, suspicion and war.

It is possible that any sane man or woman will cavil against an expenditure of five million dollars as a world insurance fund against war? The cost of one dreadnaught is from $15,000,000 to $35,000,000. The cost to the whole world of a single week in the late war was $100,000,000. Such comparisons could be continued indefinitely and they would show in the final analysis that more than one-third of all taxes in all countries can be traced to the last great conflict.

There is a real will-for-peace in the world today. It is more vocal and insistent than at any time in history and eventually the peoples of all countries will insist on some practical form of disarmament. In the meantime, the great bulk of them have come to believe in the League of Nations as the most practical agency yet devised to deal with problems of international peace. They will be ready to spend a hundred times the yearly budget of the League if they believe that it is getting results.

Battle Honors Are Awarded To Most Regiments

North B. C. Regiment Entitled to Use a Number of Names Emblazoned on Colours

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—In the supplementary list of Battle Honors which militia regiments are entitled to emblazon on their colors and on the colors of the Canadian Expeditionary Force units which such regiments perpetuate, 160 battalions are disposed of, thus reducing the number still to be dealt with to a small figure. The Department of National Defence today has caused the information regarding those battle awards to be published in District Headquarters Orders.

Heading the supplementary list is the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry who, in their 1915 section, carry the coveted honor, "Frezenberg." The Patricia's alone of the Canadian troops which operated in France are entitled to this particular award.

Three militia regiments, nine Canadian corps infantry battalions, 126 reinforcing battalions of the C.E.F., four Canadian corps Machine Gun Battalions, and four machine gun units of the active militia, six pioneer battalions, one battalion of railway construction troops and four forestry units are dealt with in this second list. Additional to these are the 259th and 260th Battalions who receive the award "Siberia."

An analysis of the awards shows that all the battalions of the Canadian Corps, with the sole exception of the 7th (British Columbia) Battalion have now received their color honors. It also discloses that only one infantry battalion has rejected all of the 1918 battles from its color, including "Amiens," "Drocourt-Queant" and "Canal du Nord." This is the 2nd Battalion, perpetuated by the Peterboro Rangers. The official list reveals that in their places those responsible for the selection have chosen the less definite "Hindenburg Line" to represent all the fighting wherein this unit participated in 1918. Every other battalion of the Canadian Corps has selected "Amiens," which, as Luedendorff said, was "the black day of the German Army." In view of the fact that the 2nd Battalion fought through Amiens on Aug. 8 and 9, 1918, to the peak of the Canadian penetration and culminated their efforts by capturing Rouvroy en Santerre, which marked the limit of the Canadian advance on the second day of the battle, the rejection of "Amiens" as a color honor is unique.

The Canadian Light Horse is the only cavalry regiment that has failed to accept "Amiens." In 1918 however, the C.L.H. were "Corps Troops" as distinguished from the regiments of the Canadian Cavalry Brigade.

In general all of the 1st Division battalions have selected "St. Julien" and "Festubert," which, in the nature of things, are honors to which only the 1st Division are entitled. The great majority of the battalions begin their list at "Mount Sorrel," which embraces all the fighting in the Ypres Salient in June, 1916. The Somme, Vimy Ridge, Hill 70, Passchendaele, Amiens, Drocourt, Queant and Canal du Nord, together with The Pursuit to Mons, represent in the main the 10 color honors which most of the perpetuated battalions of the Canadian Corps will carry. The reinforcing battalions for the most part obtain the general award "The Great War"—with the year period inserted.

Prince Rupert

Prince Rupert is represented in the North British Columbia Regiment and units whose territorial affiliation extends to several widely separated localities such as: 259th Battalion (Canadian Rifles) C.E.F., which served in Siberia was recruited from Kingston, London, Toronto, Montreal and Quebec.

260th Battalion (Canadian Rifles) C.E.F., which served in Siberia was recruited throughout Canada from Ottawa west.

2nd Canadian Pioneer Battalion C.E.F., which served in France was recruited from Ontario and Nova Scotia and was mobilized at Guelph, Ont., and Halifax, N.S.

The North B.C. Regiment

The North B. C. Regiment has the following:
"Ypres, 1915, '17," "Festubert, 1915," "Mount Sorrel," "Somme, 1916," "Ancre Heights," "Ancre, 1916," "Arras, 1917, '18," "Vimy, 1917," "Hill 70," "Passchendaele," "Amiens," "Scarpe, 1918," "Drocourt-Queant," "Hindenburg Line," "Canal du Nord," "Valenciennes," "France" and "Flanders," 1915-18."

Um-m-m-m
Perfect!

WHERE, oh where, have I tasted such vegetable soup before . . . when did such a delicious aroma as this come my way . . . A-ha-a-a-a! the dear old home "down on the farm."

The fields . . . the corn . . . the tang of vegetables in the air . . . carrots, peas, potatoes, turnips, simmering in the big black pot hanging over the kitchen fire. A-ha-a-a-a! . . . twice A-ha-a-a-a! I wouldn't have missed this for worlds!

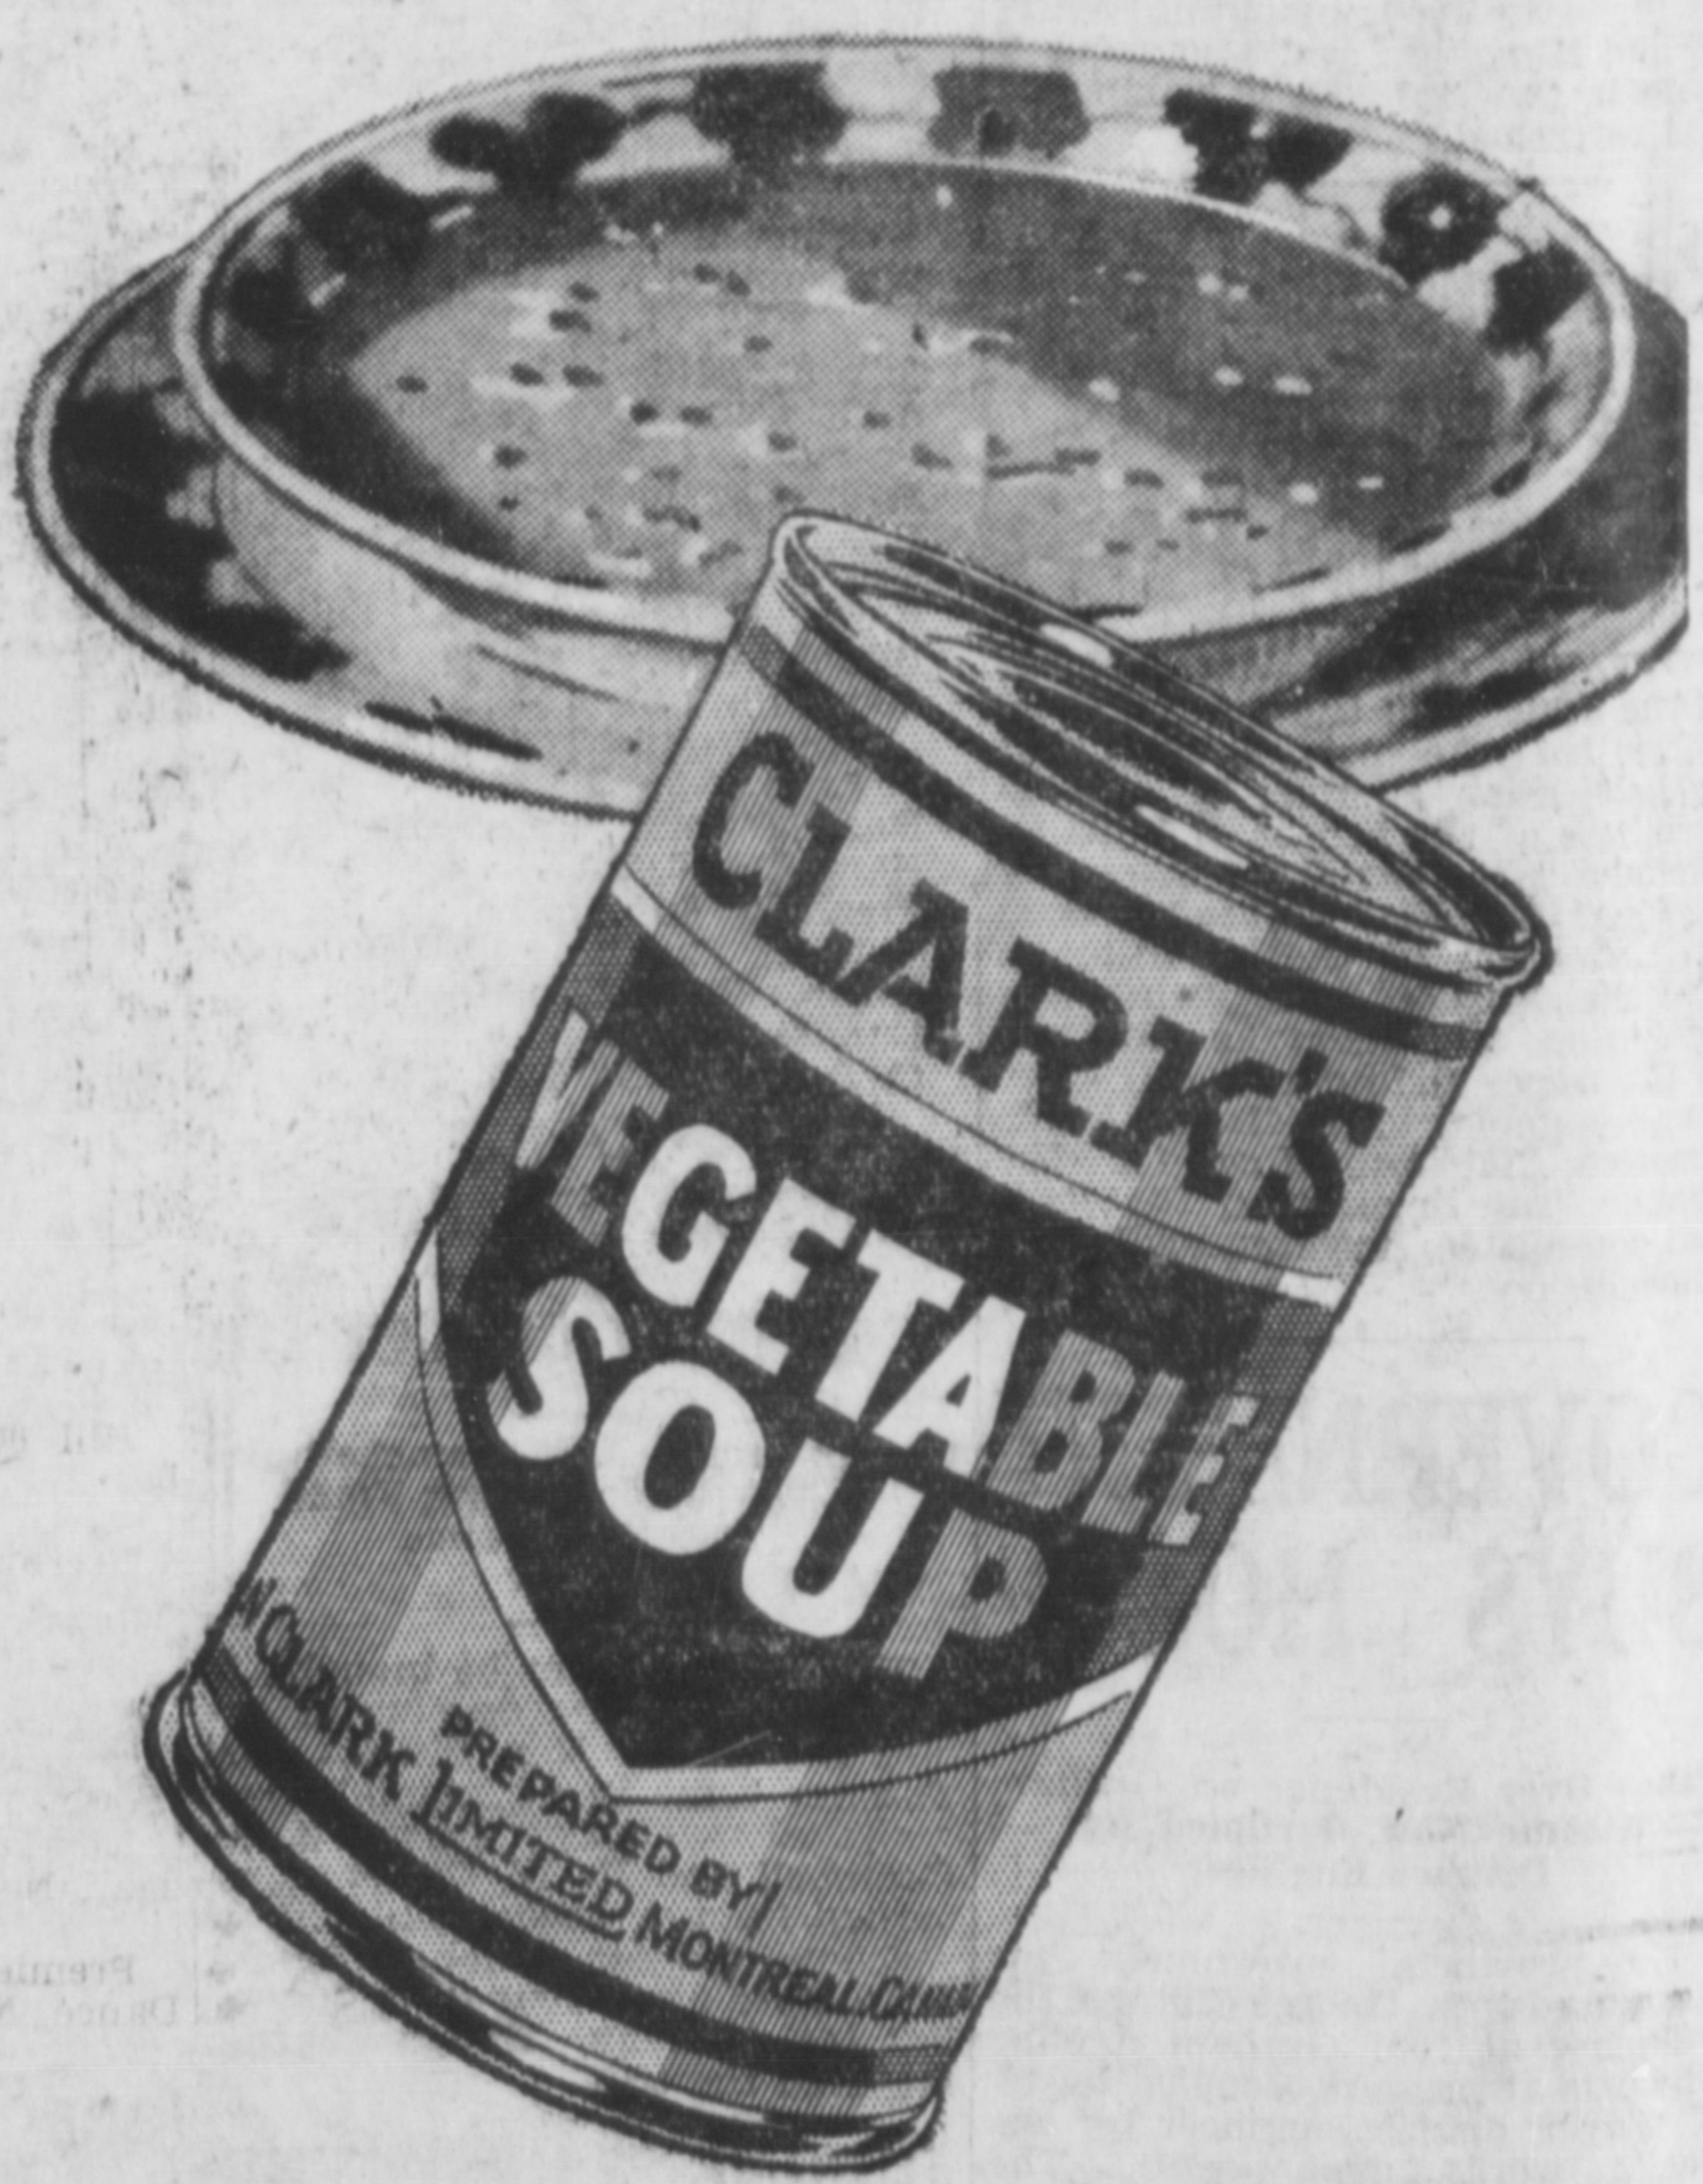

The contents of Clark's Vegetable Soup have passed Federal Government inspection.

And that's just what CLARK'S VEGETABLE SOUP is . . . a little bit of old-time soup. Better than Mother used to make . . . just that and nothing more!
