FORCED LABOR

At the present time there are about 100,000 men and women employed in Russia on forced labor, digging the big ship canal connecting Moscow with the Volga River. Some of these are convicted criminals but the bulk of them are political prisoners who have not been in agreement with the dictatorship of the proletariat as carried out in Russia today. Other large groups of political prisoners are at work on other large public works in that country, forced to labor in charge of the Soviet political police. Sentries march up and down with rifles and bayonets to see that these thousands of people make proper speed at their work and people passing in motor cars say it is not an uncommon sight for a sentry to be seen prodding one of the lagging laborers to greater activity.

We are not criticizing the action of the Soviet leaders for keeping their political enemies in these work camps. Doubtless it has been necessary to insure the successful carrying on of the dictatorship. Such methods are usually necessary under dictators. All we mention it for is to suggest that if such a method were adopted in this democratic country there would be a howl go up from the Canadian Soviet sympathizers that would be heard from sea to sea. If the Canadian government were to follow the example of Stalin and company all these political nuisances would be placed at work under armed guard and prodded occasionally to make them work faster.

MAY BECOME AN ALLY

It must be remembered that Russia today is one of the important members of the League of Nations linking up with Great Britain with a view to bringing about peace in East Africa. The question has been asked whether, if Russia were attacked by Japan, Britain would be as eager to take action to prevent hostilities and would she apply sanctions even to the extent of armed intervention. Evidently the question remains unanswered. It is hypothetical for there is no present threat that Japan would attack Russia. Each case has to be met as it presents itself. At the same time it is something to think about for those who would like to see Britain take part against Italy in the present dispute.

PLAY WAS THRILLING

Two Overtime Periods Required By Moose To Defeat Grotto—Scythians Defeat Legion

Basketball fans in large numbers last night witnessed four exciting, fast-moving hoop games with the Intermediate and Senior matches the most spectacular of the evening. The Grotto stepped out in the first half of the Senior League game and started to show the Moose why they were Northern British Columbia champs, having a good lead at half time when the score was 20-11. In the second half, however, the Moose staged a revival and at full time the score was tied 32-32. The Grotto came back in the first overtime period and got a three point lead after which the Moose tied it up again. The teams changed ends for the second overtime period with the Grotto getting a four point lead in the first two minutes. The Lodge men tied it up again with a minute to go, then sank one with only 35 seconds to go to win by a score of 41-39. It was one of the best senior games ever played on the Moose Hall floor.

They outscored the Scythians but couldn't get enough to win, although it was a toss up as to who the victors would be. WHIFFLETS

From the Waterfront

Although it was at first believed that some small local fishing boats might have been sunk as a result of being blown away from their moorings at Cow Bay in Tuesday night's gale, a check-up has revealed no boats missing. As reported on Wednesday, H. Clavering's machine shop float and two small boats were brought back undamaged after having been blown across the harbor in the gale.

Wheat is continuing to move steadily into the Alberta Wheat Pool's local elevator. Since the movement started this fall, some 363 cars have arrived here including sixty-one which were in the yards this morning awaiting to be unloaded. Something over 500 cars would fill the elevator. The inbound movement of grain will be temporarily halted owing to the tie-up on the railway line due to wash-outs.

J. W. Plommer, formerly of the local High School teaching staff and during the past summer engaged in prospecting in Northern British Columbia, signed on as quartermaster last Saturday aboard the coast freighter Northholm on her departure for Vancouver after having undergone repairs at the local dry dock following her recent stranding in Grenville Channel.

C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. Anderson, is due in port at 3:30 this afternoon from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

W. W. Trotter, manager of the Canadian Fishing Co.'s cannery at Lagoon Bay; R. T. Whiessell, accountant, and other members of the cannery crew, the party numbering about ten in all, arrived in the city on the Prince John Wednesday night from the Queen Charlotte Islands and sailed last night on the Prince George for Vancouver. The Prince John also had among her passengers some ten eggers from the J. R. Morgan Logging Co.'s camp at Sedgewick Bay which has been closed down for a time.

NOT MUCH SALMON
KETCHIKAN, Oct. 25.—The salmon fishing season appears to be about over in this district. Only a few trolling boats are still operating in the face of stormy weather in the hope of being able to take advantage of current high prices.
