DADS AND SONS DINE

fathers and sons was the most inspiring sight he had ever seen and he hoped for more such evenings together.

Ned Tobey then gave a short report on Parliamentary work, based on his recent visit to the Boys Parliament as a representative of the Tuxis, Trail Rangers and Explorers of this city. He hoped that each church would form a group which could be supervised by a central group made up of a representative body from the individual groups.

Guest Speaker

Jack Davis then introduced Rev Durnford, who asked the boys to look at their fathers. "That," he said "is your father. What do you think of him? He differs from you in many ways in the size of collars, shirts, shoes, etc that he wears. He's older and has had more experience than you—experiences that can only come with years. He started as a baby too but he also made the best of his opportunities. When you were a baby you lived in a small world your own. You found a chum started school and if you could sit still long enough, you went to church and all the time your world grew bigger and better. Then you met a girl. One day you washed behind your ears and brushed your hair without being told and mother winked at dad and said "It's started." In a few years you will marry and your world will keep on growing until every little thing in every little part of this world of ours will interest you.

"One of the lessons that every boy must learn is to take it on the jaw. John Henry Lewis learned this and I imagine that every boy present has had this lesson practised on him. You must face the difficulties and not run away from them. Many years ago, the Bible says, a man named Titus landed in Crete, where he was told to repair the country. This seemed a big job as everything was in a terrible condition but he stuck to his work and, just recently, proof of his good work, the remains of a church was uncovered on this island. It is a job in itself to find work but that is defintely the first task you must do when you leave school. A boy must learn the lesson of responsibility. The saying 'the world owes me a living' is foolish. You should accept the responsibility yourself. When dad found you on the doorstep, he didn't shirk his responsibility. He made the best of it. Don't shirk your responsibility, follow the example set by your dad.

"Moses said to Aaron, I'm going to the mountains and won't be back for a few years. I want you to look after the people and see that they don't take the wrong path and I want you to lead them through their troubles. Many years passed but Moses did not come back so the people became tired and turned all their gold into idols which they worshipped. After many years Moses did come back and went to Aaron and demanded to know what had happened to his people. Aaron said that they had put the gold into a furnace and these idols had come forth. This was shirking responsibility because if you put all the gold in the world into furnaces no gold idols will come out.

"Another lesson you must learn is to accept the order of self-sacrifice. For all the years of a boy's life his dad has sacrificed certain things for that son. The father got his example from Jesus Christ who lived the greatest life of self-sacrifice of any person. A person never gets more out of life than what he puts into it.

John Bunyon, who wrote "Pilgrim's Progress," once said, "A boy wanted to join the army of the King of Kings. The Master said Everyone will laugh at you and you must give up many things that normal people have. It won't be miserable but you must learn self sacrifice if you want to be a Christian.' He then listed all the things a Christian can't do knowing, that if he was not a Christian, he'd turn away—but the boy who was determined to become a Christian said that even though he would miss all the things he must become a Christian. And so the Master put his name down, registered him in the army of the King of Kings. 'If the Master were to be present here,' said Mr. Durnford, 'I wonder how many would be registered with him.'

"So always remember, face difficulty, take responsibility and remember that life is great in proportion to what you make it. In all things remember—He who would valiant be, Against all responsibility, Follow the Master."

Following Mr. Durnford's address, Mr. Jackson moved a vote of thanks to the leaders of the groups and praised them highly for their work.

Closing Ceremony

Ken Harding then led the closing ceremony. It was one of the most impressive sights that many of the fathers and sons had ever witnessed. Everyone was arranged in a large circle and each one was provided with a candle. At a table in the centre of the circle, three candles were placed to represent Christ and leadership and co-operation. It was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the co-operation of the churches to pledge the people so to live daily in the spirit of Jesus that others who came in contact with them would known and follow them.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Trail Ranger hymn, "Just As I Am, Young, Strong and Free."

CONSTIPATION HOLDS YOU BACK

● You cannot make much of a success in life if you are dragged down by constipation. Your trouble may be due to nothing more than a diet deficiency of bulk . . . eating foods which do not provide the "bulk" needed by the bowels for regular movement. If you suffer from this common type of constipation, get at the cause of your trouble by eating crisp, crunchy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day for breakfast and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN contributes to the needed "bulk" and is a rich source of nature's intestinal tonic Vitamin B_1. Try ALL-BRAN and see how differently you feel.
