Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations

Fire Chief H. T. Lock is leading a campaign to try to get Prince Rupert people to prevent fires, just as any good man fumbled the pick-up before MISSING police chief tries to get people to prevent crime. It is throwing to Lombardi who fell much more effective to prevent fires than to put them out after they have started.

One of the big fire dangers is the smoker. The man long fly was pulled down by Simwho takes a last smoke in bed is apt to set fire to the bed- mons. Selkirk flied out to centre clothes. Another danger is the woman who uses inflam- field. mables in cleaning. Mothers who leave matches within man sent a short base hit to centre reach of small children also are inviting trouble.

The Fire Chief suggests that every institution or to left field. Goodman going home examine its fire fighting apparatus to see if it is in second. Lombardi went out on a good working order and get rid of accumulations of paper a line drive as was Berger, ending or other refuse. He says that gasoline, benzine and nap- the game and series. tha should never be kept in a dwelling. Oily rags are particularly dangerous. Putting hot ashes in wooden boxes Reds 00000002023 is foolish. Poorly supported or corroded smoke pipes are a constant hazard.

We put in a plea for co-operation with the fire department in order that we may be free from fires in the city.

WAS EVER ANYTHING LIKE IT?

Here we have a condition in which the country is at war and a political party is sending around speakers, seemingly trying to do its best to interfere with war preparations. This is done in the name of liberty, that much abused word. Yet these are the people who only recently were blaming the British government for being lukewarm in regard to the trouble in Spain.

Then, too, down in Quebec an election is being held, for the purpose of protesting against Canada going into the war without first taking a vote of the people.

If, as suggested, Mackenzie King should decide to appeal to the country on a war policy it would be a hot election, anything but helpful at a time like this.
