Poppy Day to Be Recognized on as Active Scale as Ever

The annual Poppy Tag Day is being held here tomorrow and there is already evidence that the appeal will come home with more than usual meaning to citizens. quests for poppies and wreaths have come from distant points bearing out the contention that the sufferers of the last war will not be forgotten in the present crisis. In the city windows are being suitably decorated. The Canadian Legion window is already the subject of much favorable comment. It is not entered in the window dressing competition but is merely, although very sincerely, a tribute from the veterans to the memories of their comrades who have passed on.

From Queen Charlotte Islands comes a special request by Lewis G. Third day of November, A.D. 1939. Hilder, an ex-service man, who takes with him this evening on the Prince John a supply of poppies which he plans to dispose of at Massett and in the vicinity. With his wife's assistance, this veteran plans to make his contribution to CI

SHIPPING AGENTS

Entrance to the Port of Prince Rupert-Intimation to Ship Owners and Agents

Shipowners and Shipping Agents are advised that as a general rule, they should time the arrival of their vessels at the port for daylight. Delays will be avoided by giving immediate notice to the Chief Examining Officer, Prince Rupert, of the expected dates of arrival of their vessels, with particulars of appearance and tonnage, 12 etc. The particulars necessary. should be given on Form XI, a supply of which can be obtained from the Chief Examining Officer, Prince Rupert, B.C. This will facilitate Examining Officers and allow speedy allocation of berths. Early intimation of the proposed departure of vessels should likewise be given to the Collector of National Revenue (Customs Division). ...
