HUMAN INTEREST

Financial papers are not noted for publishing matters of human interest. However they sometimes forget themselves and become interesting. In the latest number of the Financial Post is an article by "Atticus" under the heading "London Calling" that is particularly bright and interesting. Telling of a dinner which the writer of the article attended he said Beverley Nicholls made an eloquent and beautifully phrased speech, so full of wisdom that nobody bothered to report it. A speech by the Chinese ambassador, dealing with the action of Great Britain in extending credits to China, said it was an act of chivalry and enlightened self-interest. Later the ambassador had to single out Lord Chatfield for special mention and, in doing so, said: "I have broken my solemn pledge but in doing so I am at least in the fashion of these days." Lord Chatfield, in replying to a toast, said of China he hoped that country would soon be a land flowing with "silk and money."

The same speaker, according to the account, remarked: "In fact I am forced to confess that, what with loving the Chinese, the Poles, the French, the Turks, the Greeks, the Russians and the Americans, a conscientious Briton has a busy time these days."

LIKE THE PREACHERS

Atticus also tells of a speech he heard Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett deliver and, as most local people have also heard Mr. Bennett speak and they have also heard many preachers who seem to have come to an end and then carry on to an anti-climax, they will be interested in the remarks about the former Prime Minister of Canada:

"Mr. Bennett does not employ the usual artifices of public speaking. He deals with one thought at a time. His oratory has no voluptuous curves. He does not plan a climax or flirt with the effect of a sudden silence. Like Beethoven he frequently comes to an end and then goes on again. When it is all over one is conscious of having listened to a man of grand spirit and great Imperial vision."

A GREAT AUSTRALIAN

The same writer has something to say of Hon. R. G. Menzies, attorney general and minister of industries in the new Australian government and leader of the United Australian party. He asks readers to note his name. He speaks very highly of him and suggests that he will be Prime Minister of Australia before long. One striking sentence in his eulogy is: "His irony is a glorious thing if aimed at someone else." Concluding Atticus says: "Now he is in the maelstrom of events and there will be no further peace for him. But that is the curse which falls on men whose gifts force them to outstrip their fellows."

JUNIOR RED CROSS TALK

Miss Marguerite Munson Heard at Meeting in Booth Memorial School

There was a large attendance in the auditorium of Booth Memorial High School yesterday afternoon when Miss Marguerite Munson, provincial organizer of Junior Red Cross, spoke on the subject of Junior Red Cross work. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association with the Women's Canadian Club and the Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers' Association co-operating. In introducing the speaker, J. S. Wilson, who presided, stressed the need for the co-operation of parents, teachers and pupils in all matters of education. Health was the most important subject and the home and school should be complementary agents in making the attainment and maintenance of health an every day habit. Strong public opinion would require school buildings to be sanitary so that pupils' health would not be imperiled.

Miss Munson gave striking figures illustrating the world-wide interest in the work of the Junior Red Cross. Its three principal features were health, service and international relationships. Branches were found in fifty different nations. In British Columbia there were 25,000 members and the number was increasing. One value of the movement was the training of the members to become self-reliant and responsible members of the community.

Grade five pupils of the Borden Street School under Miss Margaret Shiel then gave an interesting demonstration of how a Junior Red Cross branch would work. With duly appointed chairman, secretary and treasurer a meeting was held. Other committee chairmen gave reports. A health play was given.

Altogether a most interesting program was presented. While this is a part of the activities program it was evident that it came as a surprise to many of the parents.

Garfield McKinley moved a formal vote of thanks to Miss Munson for her interesting talk and to the pupils and teachers for the demonstration. Dr. Hugh Morrison, inspector of schools, referred to the provision made in the new curriculum for such activities. In this way pupils learned by doing.

An interesting exhibit was a booklet compiled by Junior Red Cross members of Norway. The booklet contained pictures of the Royal Family, the country, the cities, buildings, samples of pressed flowers and handwork. Many remained behind to see the booklet.

WEDDING IS BEAUTIFUL

Miss Edith Wilkinson Becomes Bride of Clifford Madill at Church Ceremony

First United Church was the setting for a beautiful and interesting marriage last evening when Miss Edith Madill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Wilkinson, became the bride of Clifford Madill, son of Mrs. M. C. Madill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Jackson and the church had been attractively decorated for the occasion with spring flowers and other adornments in pink and blue shades. The church was filled to overflowing by the outside steps.

In the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Swanna O'Brien at the pipe organ, the bride entered the church upon the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a lovely wedding gown of white net with delicate powder lace insertions passed over satin with lace jacket and full skirt. A short veil of bridal net was held in place by an off-the-face hat and she carried a shower bouquet of pink Hollywood roses, maidenhair fern and lilies-of-the-valley.

The charming bridesmaids were Miss Vivian Wrathall, in turquoise blue sheer, and Miss Ruth Wilkinson, the bride's sister, in shell pink net. Both bridesmaids wore contrasting Queen Anne hats and carried colonial bouquets.

George Madill, brother of the groom, was groomsmen.

During the signing of the register, the United Church Junior Choir sang "When Song is Sweet" with an additional verse composed especially for the bride by H. T. Lock.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 429 Dunsmuir Street, where the bride and groom received the hearty congratulations and best wishes of many friends. Removing the guests were Mrs. G. V. Wilkinson, the mother of the bride, wearing maroon velvet with navy accessories and a corsage of Hollywood roses, and Mrs. M. C. Madill, mother of the groom, whose costume was of black and silver tulle with a black picture hat and black accessories.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. J. C. Jackson with the groom responding. A toast to the bridesmaids was proposed by E. J. Smith with George Madill responding.

The bride's table was covered by a lace cloth centred with a beautiful three-tier wedding cake which was duly cut by the bride. There were pink tapers in silver holders. Mrs. J. S. Irvine and Mrs. F. N. Peero presided at the urns and the waitresses were Mrs. R. G. Vander

Steen, Miss Audrey Wrathall, Miss Venetia Peero, Miss Elsie Davis, Miss Molly Elliott, Miss Jean MacLean, Miss Lorraine Brockway and Miss Ellen Hamblin.

During the serving of refreshments Mrs. H. T. Lock and Miss Betty Wilkinson sang as a duet "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Later in the evening, with a large crowd at the dock to give them an enthusiastic send-off, Mr. and Mrs. Madill sailed on the Prince George for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, Victoria and other southern points. The bride wore a gray tailored ensemble with opal blouse and navy accessories.

The bride and the groom will return to the city to take up residence at the Angus Apartments.

On the civic holiday on Monday in connection with the visit of the King to British Columbia the Post Office wickets will be open from 8 a.m. until 12 noon. The public lobby will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.
