

Visiting Speaker At United Church

At First United Church yesterday the morning service was conducted by Miss Ann Fountain of Vancouver, girls' work organizer of the Religious Council of British Columbia, while the pastor Rev. J. Clifford Jackson preached at the evening service.

Mr. Jackson spoke on "Enduring Hardships" and, in introducing the subject, agreed that the subject was a popular one. The fact of being able and willing to endure was evidence of the virility of the individual and the nation and a definite step in the progress of the world. The attitude towards enduring must be a positive one. Paul had endured even more than was thought possible but counted it as an opportunity to try to be a "good soldier of Christ." People today would do the same. They must realize the position and face life with faith and assurance and so build a better world.

J. S. Wilson was soloist, singing "The Blind Ploughman." In the morning a large congregation heard Miss Fountain in an interesting address. The Junior Choir sang "God Who Touchest Earth in Heaven" and "There is a Happy Land."

Miss Nancy Rorie, formerly of this city and more recently located in Victoria in the provincial government service, returned on the Catala this morning from the south to join the staff of the provincial assessor's office.

J. M. Buchanan, general manager of the B. C. Packers, passed through the city on the Catala this morning on his way to the Naas River and will be back here tomorrow southbound. He is being accompanied by Mrs. Buchanan on the trip north.

Arriving on the steamer Catala early this morning was F. A. Gould, representing the Singer Sewing Machine Company. He is here preparing the way for the arrival of Miss J. Arrowsmith who is expected on the train tomorrow night to carry on a series of educational classes in the city.

Christian Workers Are Need Of World

Never In Centuries Were They More Required, Asserts Pastor Of First Presbyterian Church

Never in centuries was the need for Christian Workers in the world greater than today declared Rev. H. G. Funston in a special rally day sermon at First Presbyterian Church yesterday morning. Great stress was being laid on the importance of physical and mental welfare of men in these days but the pastor questioned if due attention was being paid to the spiritual aspect. He warned against the development of the emotion of hatred. The Sunday School joined with the regular morning congregation at the service.

Last night Miss Anne Fountain, girls' work organizer for the Religious Education Council in British Columbia, who is a visitor here from Vancouver, took part in the service at First Presbyterian Church, being an interesting and timely speaker.

It is my firm conviction that the proposal herein expressed should be brought before the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Victoria, by interested organizations within the city of Prince Rupert.

Editor, Daily News:

For some months there has been a campaign in this city with a view to establishing a system of city management to replace the present commissioner when his term expires. It is proposed to hold a plebiscite of the ratepayers of the city but, apparently, the proposal has been postponed owing to the fact that a certain number of ratepayers must first request that such a plebiscite be held.

It seems, however, that the foregoing proposal excludes the idea of any other democratic method being adopted by the qualified voters of this city. Suppose, for instance, that the ratepayers should prefer reverting to the former system of city government, would it not be a wise policy to permit the voters to express their choice freely and voluntarily?

Hence my humble suggestion is that the ratepayers be given the opportunity to vote either for a return to a mayor and five aldermen or to try out a city manager. Let the majority of the qualified voters decide the important issue.

It is my firm conviction that the proposal herein expressed should be brought before the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Victoria, by interested organizations within the city of Prince Rupert.

Last night Miss Anne Fountain, girls' work organizer for the Religious Education Council in British Columbia, who is a visitor here from Vancouver, took part in the service at First Presbyterian Church, being an interesting and timely speaker.

SMOKER IS ENJOYABLE

Members of Militia and Naval Units Entertained By Canadian Legion

The Canadian Legion clubrooms were the scene of a very jolly evening on Saturday when the local branch of the Legion was host to members of the various military and naval units in town at a smoker. It is intended to hold these affairs from time to time with the hope that the present generation of Canadians serving may meet with the older generation of ex-service men and, in the common bond of service, develop and enjoy the comradeship that is perhaps the finest legacy of the experiences of "soldiers of the King."

President Jack Preece was in the chair and extended to all the men the heartiest welcome from the Legion and the hope that they would take advantage of the accommodation provided by the local branch. Magazines and papers, games, writing paper and envelopes have been provided in the main hall and every effort was being made to make the room attractive and to provide comforts and entertainment. Coffee would be provided for the men and the local branch of Toe H was doing the very necessary and useful task of waiting on the men.

In the course of the smoker, in addition to solos, there was a very creditable display by the Canadian Legion Troop of Boy Scouts under Rev. Roy Durnford and Ken Dakin. Another novel feature was a display by a mixed squad of rifle movements. These were not altogether according to the manual of arms, being rather more varied, dexterous and amusing than the official handbook calls for.

Interesting and appreciative talks were given by Lt. Col. S. D. Johnston, Captain Lear, Lieutenant Orme Stuart and Rev. Roy Durnford. J. S. Wilson replied on behalf of the Legion. Other items were solos by Sergeant Dolman, Gunners Taylor and Graham Collison, and J. S. Wilson. Corporal McIntyre of the Irish Fusiliers gave enjoyable monologues. H. T. Lock was pianist for the evening, accompanying vocalists and the community singing which was a very popular number. Members of the entertainment committee of the Legion were very busy, these including George J. Dawes,
