YUKON HAS COME-BACK

Gold of Klondyke Again Attracts Miners

OTTAWA, September 26: (CP)—The Canadian Yukon, once the mecca of gold seekers on this continent, is again coming into prominence. The Klondyke gold "rush" was based on alluvial gold and very little lode gold has been produced in this territory. Just lately, however, the Dominion Department of Mines and Resources announced an important production of lode gold from the Carmacks district of the territory Around the turn of the century production of gold from the Yukon touched a million ounces. A decline set in soon afterwards for many years, but in the last decade there has been a considerable recovery.

During 1938 a brick of crude gold weighing 84 ounces was produced at the Laforma mine in the Freegold Mountain area in the Carmacks district. This was the first production of the area and the first gold produced in the Yukon from a lode gold property for many years. During the first three months of 1939 aproximately 250 ounces of fine gold, including bullion and concentrates, have been produced from the mill in the area, and expectations are that the output will average from 300 to 400 ounces of gold per month.

The gold discovery which led to the Klondyke "rush" was made in 1896. Between 1898 and 1905 upwards of $100,000,000 in gold was taken from the gravels of Bonanza, Eldorado, Hunker Dominion and Sulphur Creeks and their tributaries.

It's the cumulative effect of advertising that counts.

WAR SLANG IS STYLISH

Words And Terms Of Last Conflict Again In Use

Words and terms that slumbered for more than 20 years are being reawakened today by the clash of arms in Europe.

Less than a quarter-century ago, soldiers, sailors and aviators had devised a large outlandish vocabulary, much of it sardonical, to describe the tools of death, enemies, surroundings and fellow-fighters.

Much of their salty lexicon is or will be back in the day-to-day news. Do you remember:—

Dog-fight—Aerial battle between fighting planes.
Archies—Anti-aircraft guns.
Blighty—Home.
Ladies from Hell—Kilted Scots.
Poilu—French soldier.
Anzacs—Australian-New Zealand Army Corps.
Tommy Atkins—British soldier.
Gone West—Killed.
Ashcans—Depth charges dropped on undersea craft from subchasers.
Camel Corps—Infantry, because they were piled so high with equipment.
Fire Works—Night bombardment.
Red Cap or Brass Hat— British Staff Officers.
Old Man—Company or Regimental head.
Ammo—Ammunition.
Cootie—A flea.

GODLESS THEORIES

Dr. Sigmund Freud, Father Of Psycho-Analysis, Used To Being Sneered At

LONDON, Sept. 26: (CP)— Dr. Sigmund Freud, father of psychoanalysis, dead in exile here, and his works had often been the subjects of sneers.

Through the years there was a considerable public element on both sides of the Atlantic who scoffed at Freud or considered his theories essentially Godless. He had but scanty followings in Latin countries, found comparatively few adherents in his native Austria and, after Hitler gained power in Germany, was on the proscribed list of the nazis. Great Britain and the United States were his chief strongholds.

It was Freud who first broadcast the theory that all the mental ills of humanity could be traced directly to civilization's restraints upon sexual impulses.

Freud married in 1886 and became the father of three sons and three daughters. Frau Freud kept his Vienna home moving peacefully. They lived in one apartment 45 years and she accompanied her aged husband into his London exile. One of the sons, Martin, handled most of his father's business affairs and a daughter, Anna, became his chief assistant and was regarded by him as his probable successor in the field of psychoanalysis.
