CANADIANS COME HOME

Three Hundred Volunteers in Spanish Civil War Sail—Five Hundred Left in Graves LONDON, Jan. 27: (CP)—Nearly 300 Canadian volunteers who fought in Spain in the loyalist cause sailed today for home. Efforts are still being made to round up two hundred other Canadians who became detached from the main body at the Franco-Spanish frontier. The Spanish government has insisted on meeting the cost of evacuation of the Canadians, stating that this was the least they could do in showing their appreciation for their services. Five hundred Canadians were left behind in Spanish graves. The party of Canadian volunteers, which landed at New Haven from France and embarked from Liverpool, numbered 272. A spokesman said: "We are leaving Spain as soldiers obeying orders, not because we wanted to."
