FRENCH MAJORITY IN CANADA

In an address given before the Toronto Empire Club recently Jean Charles Harvey, director of the Montreal French weekly paper, Le Jour, speaking on the possibility Rupert Motors with 183. of Canadian unity, makes some interesting statements. Rupert Motorssuggesting that the French language may possibly in time become the official language of Canada he says:

"We had a mayoralty election in Montreal not long ago and one of the candidates made much of the fact that he was the father of fourteen children. That is no uncommon family in French Canada. Suppose ten of the gentleman's fourteen children marry. Suppose each of them averages eight offspring-considerably less than the father. That would give our candidate eighty grandchildren. Now, allowing for a greater decrease in the French-Canadian birthrate than is likely, let us say sixty of the eighty grandchildren marry and that they average only six children each. Mr. Gascon would then be the progenitor of four hundred and fifty-four direct descendants!

"How long, at this rate, before French becomes the dominant language in Canada and the problems we are discussing today are by sheer weight of numbers? Unless -and here I enter upon controversial ground - unless Canada's immigration policies are drastically changed in the next few years."

NEED OF IMMIGRATION

Monsieur Harvey continues: "Canada has an opportunity today that may never be repeated. Capital and populations in Europe are worried about the danger of war. Billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of people are eager to get away from the unhappy continent into the Rupert Motors free, friendly air of North America, to reconstruct in our Gyro Club New World lives which have become precarious in the Old. canadian Legion We refer not only to the persecuted Jews. LESSON FROM HISTORY

"It requires no particular effort of memory to recall that Canada's greatest prosperity came in the days when Beats Don Budge sir Wilfrid Laurier was in power and migration was pouring into Canada at the rate of 300,000 a year," says M. Famous Harvey. "Migrants in large numbers did not take away our jobs, they created activity. New markets were developed, building boomed throughout the land, newcomers took over menial jobs from native sons and Canadians went up in the social and economic scale. "Every Canadian knows that the United States owes" its predominant position in the world to a phenomenal development based on immigration, energy, and the willingness to accep' new ideas."
