An Interesting Visitor To Office On Midsummer Day; Passes Up Editorial Nuts

There was an interestiong visitor in the Daily News office yesterday. And he did not happen to be a tourist either. He was a bonafide resident of the hillside back of the office-a cheery, little brown squirrel. Apparently, he had scampered up the outside wall at the back and popped in through an open window on the bright sunny day.

Our little friend made himself quite at home. He popped around the various rooms and ran right into the editorial office. Not liking the kind of nuts he saw around the sanctum, he flicked his tail and head saucily, looked around some more and, in as nonchalant a manner as squirrels may have, departed by the way he had come.

Maybe he went up to Ross Ingram at the Thrift Cash and Carry or Jack Mussallem at the Economy Grocery to see what kind of nuts they had up there.

He was a welcome visitor to the office, fitting nicely into the wonderful summer day when everybody was feeling that nature was indeed grand. We hope he comes up again to see us some time.

SUB-ARCTIC OUTPOST RENAMED RADIUM CITY

On the petition of 100 per cent of the residents of the tiny settlement on the shores of Great Bear Lake, 30 miles from the Arctic Circle, Cameron Bay, P.O., N.W.T., has been renamed Radium City. Seven miles from the silver-radium camp at Eldorado, it serves the mine as post office, radio station and has the R.C. M.P. post for the area. The Radium City P.O. is pictured with Vic Ingram, famed figure of the far north who serves as postmaster (centre), with an outgoing mail. All mail comes in by air from Edmonton, 1,140 air miles south. Collectors, particularly in the United States and Great Britain, continually send letters to Ingram with requests that the stamps be cancelled with the mark of the sub-Arctic post and remailed to them.
