"Casualties were inflicted and some enemy dead fell into our hands," an announcement said. "Much useful information was obtained. Our forces suffered no casualties."

"The raids were made by naval and military forces in co-operation with the Royal Air Force. It was not disclosed at what points the raids had taken place or if any Allied troops had remained behind. It was said that the raids had "demonstrated the Germans have assumed vast responsibilities "in attempting to hold the entire coast line from the Arctic to the Spanish frontier and it will be necessary for them to use large numbers of troops to ward off raids made possible by dominant British sea power. Military observers expressed belief that coastal raids by shock troops might become so active as to keep part of the German army's attention diverted.

OTTAWA, June 26: (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) demanded in the House of Commons today that the government take into custody all Henry Ford's industrial interests in Canada. He declared that Ford's refusal to make airplane motors for the United Kingdom was something that could not be dismissed with "passing reference" in the House of Commons. Earlier in the afternoon the attention of the House had been called to Ford's attitude by Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson and in the Senate by Senator F. B. Black of New Brunswick who said the Canadian government should cancel all purchases of Ford cars and other equipment and forbid their sale in Canada if the report was true about the engines. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told the Commons the whole defence policy of the government was involved and Munitions Minister C. D. Howe said the Ford Company in Canada was a public company of wide ownership and was doing excellent war work.

CONVENTION COMPROMISE

Possibility of Taft-Dewey Fusion Against Wilkie Seen—Middle Course on Foreign Policy PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—The possibility of a Robert A. Taft-Thomas E. Dewey ticket being formed against Wendell Wilkie loomed at the Republican national convention today as nomination speeches commenced. The choice of the presidential candidate may be reached by tomorrow or Friday. Meantime the framing of the first plank on the national platform represented a compromise on foreign policy between strict isolation and aid to the Allies. Willingness to "help oppressed peoples" was generally favored. Former President Herbert Hoover spoke last night and, while he was given a cordial reception, there was no enthusiasm such as to suggest any possibility of his being considered as a candidate. Hoover demanded that United States keep out of the war but advocated that every aid short of going to war be given to countries which were fighting for freedom. He also advocated effective measures being taken by the United States and the western hemisphere to safeguard against totalitarian economic policies. "There is no such thing as isolation for the United States now," declared Hoover. "The only hope for mankind is that democracy shall survive on this continent."
