STILL MORE DIFFICULT

Even if Germany holds Norway her situation in regard to supply of iron ore is not simplified. With Britain and France in command of the seas it will be impossible to convey the ore from Narvik to Germany by water and FOR SALE Sealed tenders for the rail transportation is too slow. She must have ore to carry on the war and she cannot get the ore without a strong navy which she does not have.

MANY ADJUSTMENTS DUE

Many adjustments will be due to be made when the war is over and Germany beaten. Not only will the Polish! situation have to be set right, the CzechoSlovakia admin istration changed and now the Norwegian and Danish governments replaced. Russia may also find it difficult to hold the part of Poland she grabbed in such an underhand way. Two years from now, if the war lasts that long there will be possibly some more adjustments due.

These are the things that make us quite sure that the British policy of refusing complete self-government to India is the correct? policy.

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the meanle of the whole district are doing the same
