NAZI PLANE SHOT DOWN

Air Raiding Continues Active on Both Sides of English Channel

LONDON, Aug. 2: (CP)—One German plane was shot down yesterday as the Royal Air Force repelled Nazi raids on the east and west coasts. Anti-aircraft fire started and fighter planes sped up to engage a single surprise raider which dived through clouds to bomb and machine gun the south-eastern English town of Norwich but the enemy managed to get away. Five persons were killed and several injured in this raid which was but one of several, little damage and no casualties being reported from the others.

London listeners heard Hamburg, Bremen and other German radio stations cut off, indicating continued British raids on Germany.

LAYING BRITAIN'S VAST BARRIER OF MINES

A huge barrier of mines has been laid off the coasts of England. It contains no hidden dangers for shipping, as proper notice has been given according to international law. But to Germany the field presents a difficult and formidable obstruction—a complete bar against raids by the larger Nazi warships on coastal towns. It presents also a nerve-racking problem to U-boat commanders. A British mine is shown here being sent over the side of a minelayer to take its place in the formidable barrier.

LOG SCALE WELL AHEAD

Year 1940 Shows Big Lead Over 1939, Due Largely To Increased Spruce Production

Log scaling in Prince Rupert forestry district for the year 1940 to date totals 83,352,053 board feet as compared with 55,662,361 board feet in the first seven months of 1939, a compilation of official figures shows. The scale amounting to 26,240,754 board feet this July compared with 22,754,898 board feet in the same month last year. There has been a large increase in spruce production this year, due to some extent to the demand for this timber in airplane construction.

The scaling per species this July was as follows, figures for July 1939 also being shown for comparison:

	July 1940	July 1939
Board Ft.	Board Ft.	Board Ft.
Douglas Fir	1,385,072	213,044
Spruce	12,725,842	1,515,371
Cedar	4,832,224	3,010,038
Balsam	800,156	1,089,615
Hemlock	1,790,718	2,902,923
Jackpine	709,742	385,162
Miscellaneous		1,045

Totals 26,240,754 22,754,898
Although the scaling of poles and piling in the interior, at 100,840 lineal feet, showed a decrease from 263,664 lineal feet in July 1939, the total for 1940 to date, at 1,034,513 lineal feet, is still substantially ahead of 606,410 board feet in the first seven months of 1939. Of the July products 94,195 lineal feet was cedar with a small amount of hemlock.

Ties counted this July numbered 10,676, all jackpine, as compared with 14,851 pieces in the same month last year.

A total of 488 cords of wood were counted this July.

IMPORTANT GERMAN PORT OF HAMBURG IS IN RUINS FOLLOWING R. A. F. RAIDS

Bremen Has Also Been Hard Hit and Irreparable Damage Has Been Done To Hundreds of Military Objectives — Nazis Drop Leaflets on England

LONDON, August 2.—The important German port of Hamburg, as a result of "pulverizing" raids which have been conducted by the Royal Air Force, is practically in ruins and Bremen, where thousands of British bombs have also been dropped, has been badly damaged. Irreparable damage has also been done to numerous other German points of military importance in almost continuous day and night raids which have been carried out. Further, the Royal Air Force is ready to take care of any blitzkrieg whenever and wherever the Germans may choose to launch it.

This was declared today in an official statement which said that raids which have been carried out by the British have been concentrated on hundreds of military objectives with any civilian deaths or damage which may have been inflicted merely incidental.

For the first time in the war, German planes last night dropped propaganda leaflets over England. They were four page brochures measuring twelve by eight inches containing Chancellor Hitler's "Last Appeal to Reason" and offering Great Britain "reasonable peace or destruction." Air raid wardens gathered up the leaflets. The full contents of Hitler's peace speech, delivered to the Reichstag a couple of weeks ago, have already been published in Great Britain and the translation from Berlin was heard at the time.

Incendiary and high explosive bombs were also dropped in certain parts of Great Britain during the night but an official British communique said today that, during the last three days, enemy air raiding had been comparatively light with a small number of bombs scattered over widespread points, causing slight damage and few casualties. Since yesterday Royal Air Force bombers carried out further raids on German shipping, oil refineries, supply depots and communication lines at the cost of four British planes. Today there was a daylight raid on the port of Cherbourg from which three British planes failed to return.
