BE THANKFUL FOR 1940

It is only during the past few years that one has been department store building, which able to get decent butter throughout the winter. In the lis as close to a skyscraper as any past, as the days shortened the various butters adopted structure in this city where they ham 1 various flavors and some of them anything but pleasant to the taste or helpful to digestion. Now, wherever you go demonstration boards-for use as in Canada you are pretty sure to have good butter offered wall charts to signal progress of any you at public eating places or in private houses.

Good butter came with the creameries but even creameries were not in the past days an insurance against poor are long windows providing a view quality butter. It is something to be thankful for that of Hampstead Hills. times have changed. Even if we have Fascism and Communism in 1940 we have along with it good butter and that takes away some of the bad taste of the isms.

WHAT IT MEANS

Canadians do not need to be worried because Great was no match for 41-year-old Bill Britain is losing some ships. It may mean that the people Tilden, who scored a dazzling threeof Britain will have to tighten their belts a little and prob- set victory. In 1937, Vines, then reably do without some of the luxuries to which they have was beaten by England's Fred Perry been accustomed but they will have plenty of good food. in the latter's pro inaugural. For every ship sunk, hundreds of ships come through and! bring food and war supplies regularly.

MUNICIPAL SUPERVISOR

Prince Rupert's new commissioner is to be the municipal supervisor for British Columbia. The city treasurer is given the position of acting commissioner to carry on the work locally and he will report to and consult with the supervisor on all important matters. That, we take it, is the new position of affairs following the resignation of Commissioner W. J. Alder who leaves the city soon after the end of the month.

When Mr. Gilchrist was in the city recently he took several days visiting the various industrial and shipping! facilities of the city and familiarizing himself with the city FOR SALE - Sealed tenders will accounting and other matters. He was very favorably impressed with the possibilities of the city and should prove helpful in keeping the city in touch with outside interests.

Mr. Matheson is thoroughly familiar with municipal affairs and should be able to carry on the administration of the city quite well until the first city council is elected under the proposed new set-up. By that time the new council will be in a position to judge whether it would be better to choose a local man for city manager or secure an expert from the outside.

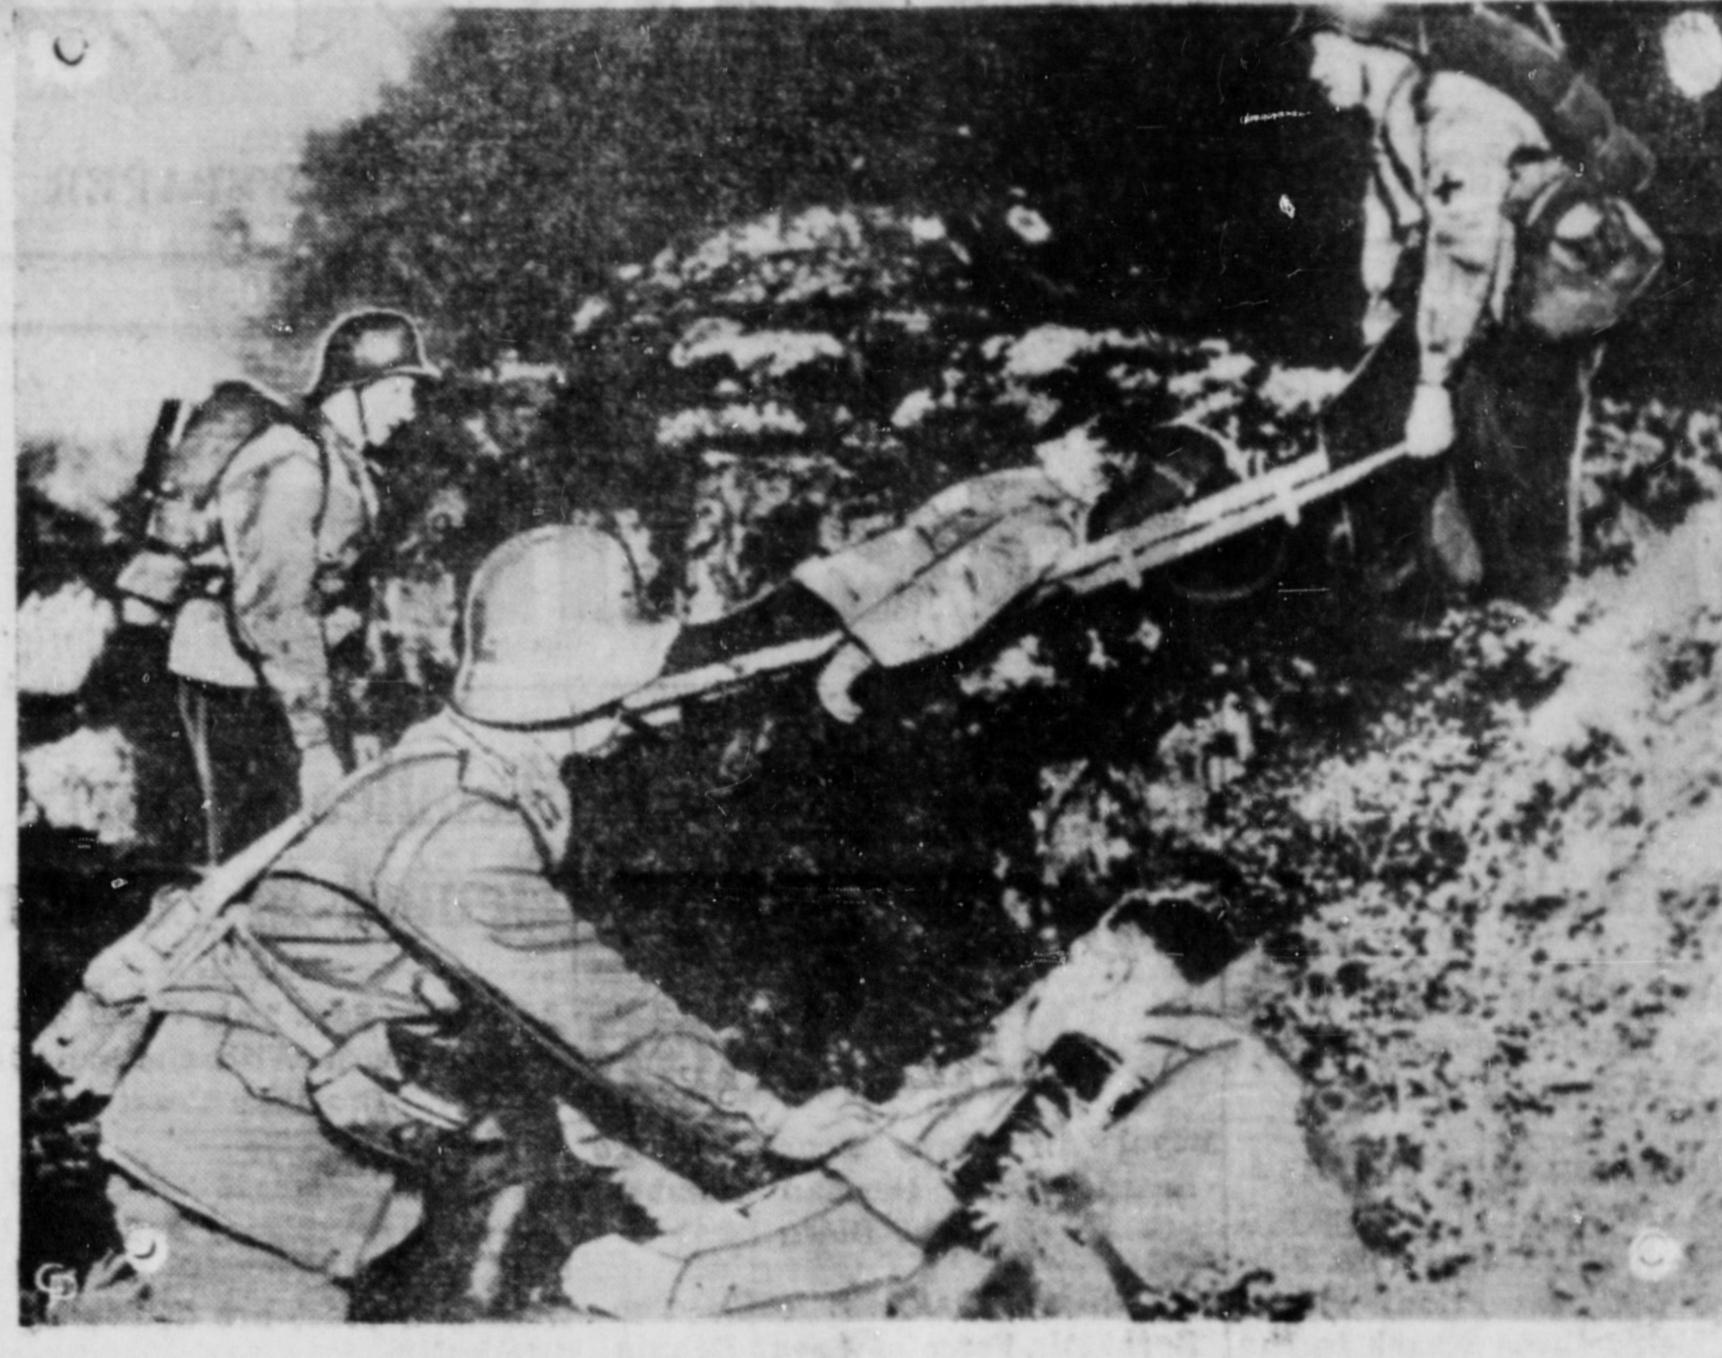

GIVING A NEWS SERVICE

During the course of the past week the Daily News led the field in bringing Prince Rupert people the three EXPERIENCED girl wants news events of most important local interest. First there was the British cabinet reorganization with the retirement of Hore-Belisha as secretary of war. Next was the official announcement of the appointment of W. H. Tobey as general manager of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. Yesterday came the announcement of the appointment of Prince Rupert's new city commissioners. With the co-operation of the Canadian Press, in which at considerable expense the Daily News holds exclusive HOW TO GET A GOVERNMENT bridge, Chinese checkers and com- pound of sugar. Oh well, I still membership in Prince Rupert, it was possible for us to bring our readers coverage on these important news events within an hour or so after they happened-not the next day following the radio broadcasts and the morning's bruiting about. The Canadian Press news is one of the most valuable features of the Daily News and a service which safeguards our paper's pre-eminent position as the local disseminator of news while it is still news.

FINNS CARING FOR WOUNDED AFTER REPULSING ATTACK

LIBHARY

Members of the Finnish army ambulance corps are shown taking their wounded to field dressing stations on the Karelian front after a Soviet attack had been repulsed. Finnish losses at this point have been heavy compared wiith other sectors, but according to neutral estimates, not nearly as heavy as the losses inflicted on the enemy. It was across the Karelian Isthmus that the Russians had hoped to crack the Mannerheim line, main line of Finland's defence, but their first efforts were failures.

SPORT CHAT

London has a National Chess Centre and members think it's just about the answer to a chess player's dream, with quiet the keynote and comfort ranking just as important. Thick carpet covers the floors of the place, located six stories above the street in a West End don't build high. Pleasant rooms, a lending and reference library, important game elsewhere- are added attractions. For relaxation from strenuous concentration there

Man in the Moon

As this is my first appearance since Christmas, let me wish one and all and the others a happy ! year. It is not exactly a new year just now. So far it seems about as usual, thank you.

Jake says this wishing is all nonsense. He says he has wished himself a happy new year for quite a few seasons past and not one of the wishes has had any effect. A morning after is just as 'dull this year as it was last.

Some people are wishing they were Superintendent Tobey with a chance to live in Vancouver and enjoy a lot of good things but they do not need to. He will have many problems to tackle.

But what would this old world be without striving and solving problems? Jake says it would be worse than Russia.

By the by, Russia found a tough little problem to solve when it crossed the border into Finland. It might have been better for them to have stayed at home and tried to solve the problem of how to live decently in their own country.

Most people want to win but only the very best people know how to lose.

You can read a man's character from the manner in which hel faces adversity.
