Modern Poilus Less Romantic

PARIS, March 5: (CP)—The stationers and postcard shops have got their supplies of new wartime postcards. In stands in some out-of-the way places are to be found, still existent if a little yellow, those which were popular in the last war—but France is like that.

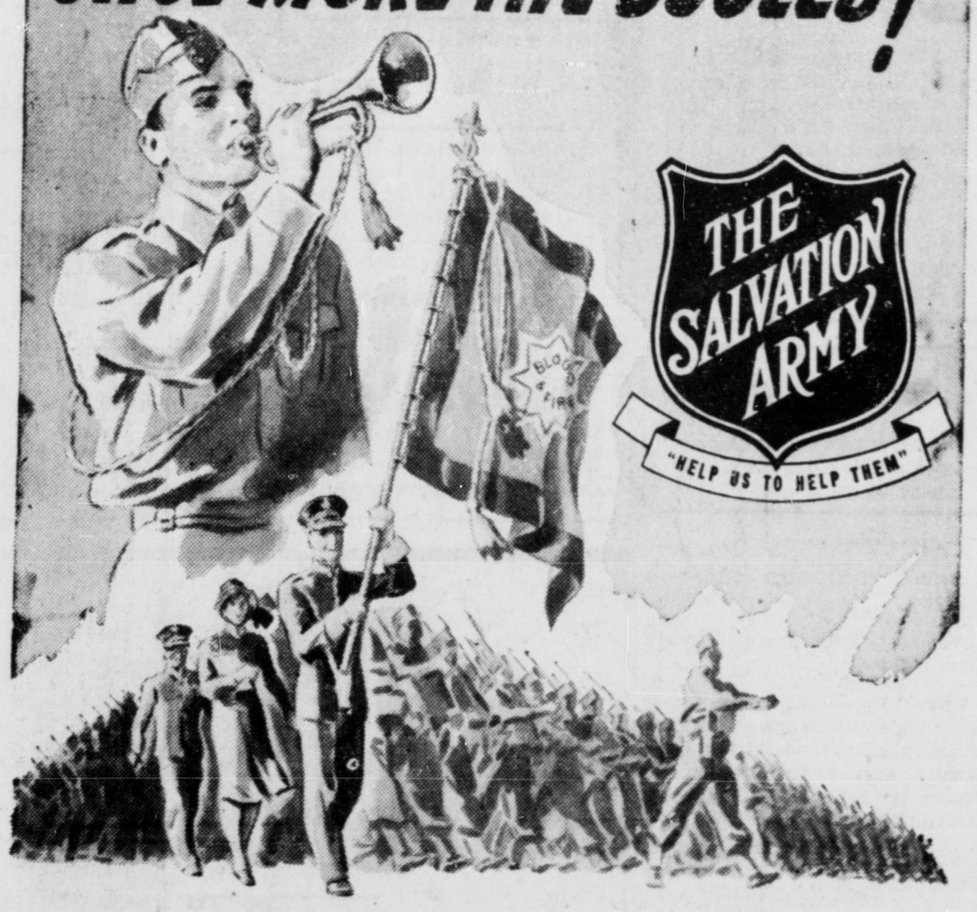
Every family album has a number of those from the 1914-1918 period—the over-sentimental poses, the "ideal girl," the "dream sweetheart," a sailor gazing at a star from which a magazine-cover girl looks down. "The Kiss" was a favorite and another pose of the same theme reads "A Soldier's Recompense."

The industry of love postcards—for it is an industry—is going strong again and the French poilus in their sky-blue uniforms are seen hovering about the stands, a little sheepishly, it is true, but interested.

Producers say the old type of card has lost its popularity and the boys and girls want something to express their sentiments without being over-sentimental.

Thus the cards for 1940 are posted and selling. One shows a wall in which a horseshoe forms a window about which flowers are growing. Through the window leans a girl with modern windblown haircut and a general 1940 allure. Her hands, filled with roses, are held by a handsome young soldier who gazes into her eyes raptly. The verse below reads: "Nothing is sweeter than your caress. In return I offer my tenderness."

ONCE MORE THE BUGLES!



ONCE again the bugles call and the Salvation Army goes to the front on active service with the troops—not to kill and destroy but to comfort and save . . . to help men to keep a grip on themselves and their own souls. Will you help to make the soldiers say what they said in the last war, "God Bless the Salvation Army."

THE RED SHIELD PROGRAMME

The complete Red Shield Programme of the Salvation Army is already operating in the principal training camps of Canada and with the First Division overseas. It will accompany our soldiers to France and follow as close up to the front line as the military authorities permit.

IN THE NAME OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE

For the sake of Canada's soldiers fighting our battles overseas . . . for the sake of their loved ones at home . . . for the sake of the Salvation Army's work for the poor and oppressed we ask you to help in word and deed.

The Red Shield Programme includes:

Chaplain Service
Hospital Visitation
Recreation Centres ("Huts")
"Dry" Canteens
Hostels (Beds and Meals in London and elsewhere)
Libraries and Reading Rooms
Writing Rooms
Socks and Knitted Wear
Darning, Mending, Clothes Pressing
Clothes and Shelter for Discharged Men
Contact with Soldiers' Families
Educational and Recreational Departments

And many other services, including friendly counsel and advice when asked or needed.

We owe a responsibility also to the mothers, wives and children the enlisted men have left behind. And always there is the regular work of the Salvation Army, which will be heavier because of the war. Will you help?

Volunteer workers will call upon you. Receive them kindly and give as your heart dictates

Service With Q. C. Islands Is Discussed

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce Decided Not to Take Any Action

Complaining that the steamer stop-overs at Prince Rupert and Vancouver were not long enough for passengers to do their shopping and return, a letter from the New Massett Community Club read at the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce regular monthly dinner last night asked that a stop-over of at least 36 hours at each end be given. This would allow wholesalers and others to fill orders. The letter had been referred to the trade and commerce committee which reported that the request would not be feasible so the report of the committee was adopted.

A suggestion was made that possibly, now there was increased logging business on the islands and the tourist business on the Prince Charles had been steadily increasing, the company might consider putting on the two boats during the coming summer, running over the same route alternately with each other.

Peter Lakie, on behalf of the company, explained that two extra trips had already been made to the logging camps and the men would stay there until the camps closed. There would be no extra business that it was not able to handle with the one boat. It was also expected that tourists could be satisfactorily accommodated by giving a daylight run to Prince Rupert from Port Clements.
