Nazis Turn Herrings Into Explosives—Former Local Boy Sailing High Seas

A German chemist has suggested the idea of enlisting the help of the sea in a novel way to help the Reich in the war. The North Sea and Baltic in the locality of the German coast are notably rich in herrings which form more than nine-tenths of all the fish therein. The price of herrings is extremely low and their nutritive value high. But, above all, an astonishing number of products, which can be used in the manufacture of a variety of articles, foods and materials, can be extracted from them. Indeed it is hoped to obtain sufficient nitrates and glycerine from the herrings to be able to augment the supply of military explosives for the Nazi regime. When submitted to chemical processes the herring yields readily to treatment. The drying and separation into its components can be effected within a week and, at the end of fifteen days, one can wrest from a hundred and twenty herrings enough explosives for a small torpedo! For this reason alone the commonest fish of the North Sea is receiving the consideration of the Reich. But this is not all. In addition to nitrates, most of which are obtained from the female, the herring can be made to yield large quantities of cellulose—the basis of the synthetic plastics industries. And so the herring will help in the manufacture of wireless receivers and insulating materials. From this wonderful fish can also be obtained sodium salts and certain fats (not in large quantities—but the Reich is always in great need of fat). On the average, several pounds of herrings yield several cakes of soap. The same herring, after extraction of explosives and soap, could still be eaten in the form of jam or fruit jelly! This sounds strange, but is quite reasonable, as the Baltic herring yields 40 per cent of its weight in gelatine. The most extraordinary use for herrings so far suggested is to make them into tooth-brushes! The plastics obtained from the fish are transparent, color well and are easily made into small articles such as tooth-brushes. The herring is an absolute bonanza for the German substitute industry, and will doubtless be put to full use. But the drawback is that the German fisheries can never obtain the ten thousand tons of herrings per week.

Union steamer Venture, Capt. John Boden, arrived in port at 11:30 last night from the south and sailed a couple of hours later on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Norman Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Allen, formerly of this city and now residing in Vancouver, has been with the Silver-Java Line of merchant ships for almost two years. Recently his parents had a letter from him, posted from Manila about Christmas, which told interestingly of a Yuletide message sent by the King to members of the British merchant navy.

With Rev. Peter Kelly of Ocean Falls in charge, the United Church mission boat Thomas Crosby arrived in port yesterday afternoon from down the coast. On board the Thomas Crosby, besides Mr. Kelly and other regular members of the crew, were Rev. W. P. Bunt, superintendent of missions for British Columbia, and Rev. R. L. McConnell, missionary at Kitimaat, here to attend sessions of Prince Rupert Presbytery next week.

FILM FULL OF ACTION

"Frontier Marshal" Tops Bill At Capitol Theatre Tonight—"Bridal Suite" Is Comedy Romance

There is said to be plenty of blood-tingling action in "Frontier Marshal," featuring Randolph Scott and Nancy Kelly, which tops the Saturday night bill at the Capitol Theatre here. It is a vivid story of a wicked, wild town of the dangerous old west where life is not very safe until a fighting marshal brings in the law at the shooting end of a six gun. Scott is seen in the title role of the marshal who was able to tame Tombstone and stay alive because nobody could ever beat him to the draw. Nancy Kelly is a beautiful and brave girl who followed the man she loved to the wide open town in the hope of saving him from himself. Cesar Romero is the menace of the piece as an elegant gambler and deadly killer. Binnie Barnes is a volcanic dance hall queen and John Carradine is the villainous proprietor of a roistering dance hall.

Companion picture for "Frontier Marshal" on a double bill is "Bridal Suite," a romantic comedy starring Robert Young and Annabella. Other favorites in the cast include Billie Burke, Walter Connolly and Arthur Treacher. This picture is said to be one of the liveliest and funniest comedy features that has been seen here in some time.

Military Hospital Needs Here Great

Lack of Comforts and Equipment Discovered by Red Cross Committee

That the military hospital here urgently needs towels, dressing gowns, bedroom slippers, hot water bottles, chairs, games and other articles is reported by Mrs. F. N. Good, Mrs. William Cruickshank and Mrs. R. C. St. Clair who visited the place yesterday afternoon on behalf of the Red Cross Society, being accompanied by Lieut. Frost, the medical officer of the local garrison. Mrs. Good is convenor for a special tea to be held by the Red Cross next Wednesday to raise funds to make purchases for the military hospital. The ladies found on their visit that a great deal is needed and they are hoping that there will be a large patronage for the tea. Some of the required articles, such as chairs and games, might be donated, it is suggested.
