NASSAU IS ATTRACTION

Famous Romance Recalled as Duke Comes to New Post as Governor Of the Bahamas

NEW YORK, Aug 5: (CP)—Popularity of Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, with United States tourists is expected to soar high as a result of the appointment of the Duke of Windsor as Governor. Already Uncle Sam's winter social schedules are being revised.

The Nassau telephone list will include the Baltimore belle who rocked the British Empire but missed the throne — the Duchess of Windsor. And, of course, the Duke, who was King Edward VIII until he abdicated December 11, 1936.

At Nassau is the governor's palace, a large rambling stucco affair with "deep south" galleries running around the second floor, much like the galleries on the Warrenton, Va., hotel where the Duchess lived for two years in the 20's. There's a magnificent view of the bay from the Nassau house. And there's an annual stipend of 12,000.

That brings up memories that no $12,000-a-year would have financed. Remember that June wedding at Monts, France, in 1937? The Duke, looking younger and happier than he had in years, dashed hatless to the village florist to spent $1,300 for flowers. Their first Christmas he came home with $500 worth of orchids and white violets. She likes white flowers best.

Remember the trousseau that was the answer to every maiden's prayer? Schiaparelli made 17 of the dresses. The Duchess relief designed 30 of her 48 trousseau frocks. They were so individual she set new styles. She started us off one those cocktail dresses with the severe applique on the jackets, for instance. But the dress that titillated imagination was the frothy, white organdy dance frock. It had two bright scarlet lobsters printed on the skirt.

Expensive Jewels

Wonder if she'll be wearing that little chain bracelet with the six dangling crosses? Half the crosses were cut from amethysts half from emeralds.

Wonder if she will wear the diamond diadem at Nassau? It was his wedding present. Or the pin in a three-feather design? Three feathers were his insignia as Prince of Wales. Her pin was set with several shades of blue precious stones. There were earrings to match.

When they finally started for their honeymoon in an Austrian castle they had 226 pieces of luggage, of which 183 were trunks. Wonder where it all was this June when they landed in Spain? They said they were down to a few cans of sardines and, of course, one limousine.

Wonder if it's going to be difficult to shop in Nassau? In London it often took half an hour for her to buy one pair of hose. Just to get the right shade.

Wonder what's become of that dining-room table she had in her home at Regent's Park? Glass top and invisibly lighted. The illumination faded from bright at the soup to candle power for the dessert. The table at first had a mirror top. She had it changed to clear glass. She explained, "I got tired of looking up my guests' noses."

The Duchess knows how to order, too. Here's one menu they had: Clear turtle soup, a lobster mousse, roast pheasant, souffle potatoes, mixed green salad, frozen pineapple, Bordeaux wine and liqueur with the coffee.

CIVIL WAR FILM HERE

"Virginia City," With Errol Flynn And Miriam West, Depicts West In Roaring Days

Saga of the roaring west of the Civil War era, "Virginia City," with Errol Flynn and Miriam Hopkins in the leading roles, is the feature offering at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week.

The setting is a colorful, lawless mining town during the rowdy days. The theme recounts an authentic episode adeptly woven into a screen play.

Flynn portrays the part of an intelligence officer who is sent to the mining town to track down a gold shipment. His romance with the queen of the dance halls, Miss Hopkins, is short-lived when the girl has him kidnapped and he learns that she is a spy. The intelligence officer is taken prisoner on a gold caravan led by Randolph Scott. Then there is an attack by bandits, led by Humphrey Bogart, who is outwitted by Flynn. The end of the war permits a happy ending.

Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Guinn Williams and John Litel are other well known members of the cast.
