INTERNATIONAL CONGREGATION

in a position to build up a superior civilization."

Mr. Brandt, whose parents came from Sweden, referred to the difficult time which the small nations of the world were having. They were like children caught in a struggle between strong adults, trying in every way to keep out of the way. The people of Norway were suffering today and would continue to suffer. It was hardly conceivable that Sweden could stay out long. After all, Mr. Brandt felt that the leaders of a nation did as its people willed. There was an individual responsibility. People could not live indifferent to moral and spiritual values. If the day of happy peace was to come there must be a greater sense of individual responsibility. People could not allow a mad being to rule them. Because there had been failure of responsiblity to guide nations, disaster had fallen upon the world. There must be self-examination against the day of reconstruction of a better world.

Two Ancient Domeeracies

Before closing the meeting, Mr. Myrwang gave an historical talk on Norway and Iceland. The latter, he said, was the oldest of all democracies of the world. He told of the founding of Rejkavik in the ninth century by Ingvolf Arnerson, a Norwegian. Island's parliamentary assembly was the oldest in the world. Today Iceland was a progressive nation of 140,000 people with the same fundamental laws of democracy. Norway was a land where there was a strong individualistic attitude but where the people were capable of uniting in profound friendship, understanding and co-operation. There were the friendliest relations between Norway and Sweden. Norway had sought no quarrel with any nation, desiring but to live in peace within and without. It had developed far in the field of social economy, culture and education. If ever an unjust war had been thrust upon any nation, it was that which had been forced upon Norway today by a man drunk with power. "We must put our trust in God, knowing that our cause is just and confident that the right will prevail."

Dean Gibson pronounced the benediction at the closing of the meeting.

District News

SMITHERS

The Interior News of Smithers will resume publication on May 1, it has been announced by Mrs. Warner who will carry on the paper which has been published here for many years by the late L. B. Warner. A linotype operator will arrive from Vancouver in a few days to take charge of the mechanical operation of the paper. The paper has always enjoyed a good circulation throughout the Bulkley Valley and district and has been very much missed during the few weeks it has not been published since the death of the owner and operator, L. B. Warner.

Grading of the streets of Smithers is now in progress and, owing to the lack of severe frost during the winter, the streets are in better shape this year than they have been for many years. The highway between Smithers and Prince George and beyond is not in the best of condition just now, owing to the many holes that appear as the frost comes out of the ground and heavy traffic is practically forbidden on some stretches of the road temporarily.
