War Extension - - -

The extension of the war to include Greece and possibly Turkey may or may not have an effect on the final outcome of the conflict. It will undoubtedly increase the local interest in the war because there are large Italian and Greek colonies in Prince Rupert, members of which will be keenly interested in the outcome.

The Graeco-Italian war seems to have started without any good reason except that Italy, egged on by Germany in Axis ambitions against Great Britain, is anxious to grab more territory. It is the outcome of the recent conferences between Mussolini and Hitler. Italy seems to have the advantage of numbers but numbers do not always count. The British navy is likely to take an important part in the operations and it is probable that news will come thick and fast during the next few days.

Only A Transport - - -

The steamer Empress of Britain, that was sunk by the Germans, was only a transport, not a war ship. She was a valuable vessel but had no armament to withstand the attacks of high powered bombs. While it is not wise to minimize any loss, it must be seen in its proper proportion. This loss is not very important from a naval point of view. Most of those aboard were picked up and are now safe ashore. More important was the loss of the Canadian destroyer Margaree which sank as the result of a collision with a merchant ship. She is a definite loss to the navy and particularly a loss to Canada in valuable men. We regret the loss of young men from British Columbia including several well known to people in Prince Rupert.

Navy Getting It - - -

At the beginning of the war it seemed as if the navy might be the safer place for a young man who wished to be a war participant. However, the senior service is just as enthusiastic as the rest and is nobly upholding its traditions. Today the navy is getting much of the fighting. It seems to be one of the most dangerous of the forces and there is prospect of even more active participation in the near future. Canadians are proud of their navy and of the work it is doing.

Empire Trade - - -

Blue books are often very interesting if a person is really seeking information. Some of this information is most striking. For instance, it is indicated in a blue book that Canada does a large trade with Empire countries. One rather unexpected example of this is found in South Africa. That Dominion imports most of its electric stoves from Canada. Last year it took over ten thousand valued at over half a million dollars. In fact, seventy per cent of the electric stoves imported into that union came from Canada. Evidently, this country has made a name for its electric stoves.

TERRACE CLASSES

Successful Two Week Dominion-Provincial Training School Concludes

TERRACE, Oct. 29.—The classes of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training School came to an end Saturday after a successful session of two weeks. A goodly number of young people availed themselves of the opportunity of gaining an inkling into subjects which they would not otherwise have had.

By way of winding up the classes in the pleasantest fashion, a banquet was held in the Orange Hall on Thursday to which the students and some of the local citizens had been invited. Mrs. Dudley G. Little was chairman of the students' committee and, in that capacity, announced each of the speakers. Miss Muriel Duncan, of U.S.K. secretary of the same committee, made a neat speech welcoming the guests to which P. E. Crocker made suitable reply. Miss Barbara Sherwood spoke on behalf of the students and, in doing so, stressed the advantage which the local youth felt and appreciated in the fact that these classes had been brought to Terrace.

Rev. C. A. Hinchliffe, the guest speaker, went into things somewhat more fully. He thought the students should not fail to make good use of the instruction which they had gained and that the proposed continuation classes should not be neglected.

Douglas Taylor, principal of the youth training school, concluded the speechmaking with a suitable address.

The evening was brought to a conclusion with a very fine display of movie pictures among which were some exceedingly beautiful photos in color of flowering trees and garden effects.

PRODUCING TUNGSTEN

Riverside Property On Salmon River Starts To Mine And Mill Precious Ore On Commercial Basis

With a fully equipped ball crusher, mill of 125 tons daily maximum capacity in operation and a crew of twenty-three men in two shifts employed, the Riverside mine on the Alaskan side of the Salmon River road to the Premier mine last week started production in the mining of tungsten ore. J. H. Scott of San Francisco, head of the San Francisco interests operating the property, stated in Prince Rupert on Sunday. Mr. Scott was one of the rescued passengers from the steamer Alaska who was here aboard the North Coast following the wreck down the coast.

Between now and December 4 it is planned to put one thousand tons of ore through the mill experimentally to ascertain if a commercial separation of tungsten from gold, lead, silver, sulphur and iron can be effected. It is necessary that tungsten concentrates be not less than sixty-five percent pure.

Results of the Riverside operation will indicate, Mr. Scott pointed out, what might be done in the way of tungsten production on the British Columbia side of the road. To assist in ascertaining the possibilities, equipment has been loaned by Riverside. If the Riverside operation is successful, it may mean that there may be similar success in British Columbia.

It is the first time that tungsten has been found in apparently commercial quantities so far north.

The Riverside mine is six miles distant from Hyder on the side of the Premier road. For the past five months a campaign of rehabilitation of the property has been under way.

W. E. Kareher is superintendent in charge with Arthur Moe as assistant superintendent.

E. T. Kenney, M. L. A. for Skeena, left Thursday last to attend the Legislature session at Victoria.

Jesse Bridden of Massett arrived Friday for a short visit at Terrace with friends. Mrs. Wolfe, a daughter of Mr. Bridden, accompanied her father.

Friday's train passing Terrace carried a detachment of soldiers off to the front among whom were two or three Terrace boys.

SMITHERS

Ed. Burhoe, who has been conducting a photography and picture business in the Kenney Building on Main Street for the past two years, has closed out his business and returned to Vancouver with his family. Mr. and Mrs. Burhoe came to Smithers about five years ago and have made a large circle of friends who are sorry to see them leave the district. Mr. Burhoe expects to establish himself in business somewhere in the south.

John Carpenter of Nelson, son of the late J. C. Carpenter, who was engineer on the ill-fated Canadian National Railways train which met with an accident at Lorne Creek last week, arrived home in Smithers a few days ago. John made quite a name for himself as a baseball pitcher in some of the southern United States baseball teams but was forced to give up what promised to be a successful pitching career on account of an illness and has now become a member of the police force at Nelson.

Tom Collison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Collison of Smithers and a member of the 102nd Coast Artillery at Prince Rupert, is at home in Smithers for a short holiday.

A group of 45 young men, members of Canadian Air Force, passed through Smithers a few days ago enroute to Prince Rupert. During their half hour's stay in Smithers they took a short route march through the town and created a fine impression with their smart and military bearing.

Repair work on the drug store and post office building in Smithers is just about finished and the building has had a renovation from roof to mud sills. Contractor E. Hann had the work in hand and, with quite a staff of helpers, the job was rushed to completion in a race with the weather which might have turned bad enough to delay completion.

Smithers high school boys are now having regular military drill at certain periods each week, under instruction of K. G. Houghton.

Bulkley Valley branch of the Canadian Legion will carry out its regular annual observances in connection with Remembrance Day. There will be a church service in the United Church under the joint participation of both the United and the Anglican Churches on the Sunday morning to which the veterans will march in a body. Special music and an orchestra of seven pieces under J. S. Gray will be provided and special choir music. Poppies will be sold throughout the district and the regular dance in the town hall at Smithers Monday night will finish the activities.
