PROGRESSIVES DETERMINED TO PROGRESS.

Notwithstanding the fact that the political campaign is over; notwithstanding the further fact that the Progressive Conservatives were wiped out, or bought out, by the Ring just before the Conservative convention, they yesterday advertised and held another meeting in the name of Progressives. Such sturdy adherence to settled principles would stimulate popular admiration to a high pitch were it not for the careless trick of back-sliding these Progressives seem to have cultivated into a regular habit. Now if, after they had been wiped out or sold out, they had repented—even at the eleventh hour—say at 5 o'clock last Thursday, and have all cast their votes against William Manson as they originally intended, great would have been their reward. But they did not, so how can we trust them again, for verily the Truth is not in them.

Their bold action, however, in again calling a meeting as Progressive Conservatives does just tickle the approbatory nerve when we recall the Conservative solemnities of the preceding evening. Three leading Progressives were called upon the carpet of the Conservative Club to be read out of that organization for treachery to the party. "And there was not one amongst them to cast the first stone." Were they all tarred with the same brush?

It is a bold action because of the reprisals that will inevitably follow; the punishments that the Ring will see are inflicted by hook or more probably by crook upon all those guilty of independent thought or opinion before they cast their ballot. One instance of this is found in the case of Earl Scovill, government agent at Golden, B. C. He was a supporter of H. E. Forster, the Independent Conservative candidate, and nothing was said of it. But Forster defeated the regular Conservative nominee, and the day after the election Mr. Scovill was asked for his resignation.

So that while one may admire the courage of the Progressives in timidly creeping out of their holes when the danger seems to be passed, we cannot refrain from the warning not to be too bold; because this province we live in is not a land of free speech and political liberty; it is not a land of constitutional government, but a limited oligarchy.

Louis P. Bowler has in the Daily Financial News of London an article on the resources of the Queen Charlotte Islands which he concludes in these words: "From a money making and patriotic point of view it would be well for the financier and empire builder to keep an eye on Queen Charlotte Islands and not let them become absolutely absorbed by American capital, accelerated by the opening of the Panama Canal."

RECIPROCITY AGAIN A LIVE ISSUE.

Hay is selling across the line from $20 to $30 a ton. There is plenty of feed on this side of the line. But through the rejection of the reciprocity agreement we cannot with profit take the feed across where it is needed or bring the animals which need the feed here where it is plentiful, says the Calgary Albertan. A California correspondent says that straw is selling at $20 a ton there.

A correspondent to the Albertan refers to the B. C. market which was mentioned in the recent election. Then it was argued by the Conservative speakers that reciprocity would mean the loss of the B. C. market and that our farmers would be unable to dispose of their oats and their hay. But hay is cheaper at the Canadian coast than it is in Alberta, and across the line, which is shut out to Canadian producers, the price is very high. Here is a year when the B. C. market is practically useless and we are shut out both going and coming from the market which but for the duty is available.

Fisheries Company Has Purchased Steamer Orontes of Glasgow, Which Is on Way Around Horn to This Coast.

The Wallace Fisheries, Ltd., recently purchased the trim little steamer Orontes in Glasgow for the purpose of collecting fish from its fishermen operating far out at sea on Swiftsure Bank on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The vessel reached Las Palmas, Cape Verde Islands, on Thursday, twenty days out, according to a cablegram received yesterday by Mr. J. M. MacMillan, one of the directors of the company. Her next stop will be at Bahia, Brazil. The Orontes is of 100 tons register and a speed of eleven knots an hour. She will arrive on this coast about May 1.

Mr. Peter Wallace, general manager of the company, and Mr. MacMillan spent several days on Alberni Canal inspecting their new salmon cannery and cold storage plant just completed there and representing, with fishing equipment, an investment of $300,000. The cold storage plant has a capacity of 2,500,000 pounds. Seining operations by Canadians on Swiftsure Bank, which has hitherto been monopolized by Americans, promises to be successful. The bank is outside the three mile limit near the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The Wallace Company will also have a fleet of gasoline fishing boats in territorial waters and expect to pack 40,000 cases of salmon during the coming season.—Vancouver World.

NEW TOWNSITE ON SALE SOON

"Anmudsen" Proposed as Name for First Divisional Point on G. T. P. Out of Rupert—Sale of Lots This Month.

Close to Lorne Creek, at Mile 119, it has been decided will be the first divisional point on the G. T. P. out of Rupert, and here the newest townsite realty business will begin in the middle of this month when lots will be put on sale in Rupert.

"Anmudsen" (the proposed name for the new townsite) looks to be the town of chief importance between Prince Rupert and New Hazelton. The G. T. P. has bought nearly all the land available at this point for their round-house, yards and freight divisional purposes. A large force of men has been busy for many months in clearing the land. The G. T. P. has started work on the round-house for twelve engines.

The lots to be put on sale in the middle of this month will be sold by the Continental Trust Company.

FEWER BIRTHS IN ENGLAND

Serious Decline in the Birth Rate Revealed by Returns of the Registrar General for Last Year.

A serious decline in the natural increase of population in England and Wales during the year 1911 is revealed in the return of the registrar general. The births registered numbered 881,233; the deaths numbered 527,864. The increase of population thus shown is 353,369, whereas the average for the preceding five years was 405,559.

The birth rate shows a further decline, being 24.4 per 1,000, or 0.7 lower than the rate in any other year on record, and 2.8 per 1,000 less than the average of the ten years preceding. The death rate was 44.6 per 1,000, which is 1.1 per 1,000 above the rate in 1910, which was the lowest on record.

Judge Thomas Lyons of the United States district court at Juneau has been presented with a solid silver water service by the jury which has served ten weeks in his court there. WIRELESS SYSTEM ENCIRCLING THE WHOLE BRITISH EMPIRE

DETAILS OF PROPOSED ARRANGEMENTS WITH MARCONI COMPANY BY THE IMPERIAL GOVERNMENT AND THE GOVERNMENTS OF ALL THE COLONIES.

(Special Correspondence.) Montreal, March 27.—Details of the proposed arrangements between the Imperial government and the Canadian Marconi Company for an "all red" wireless system to encircle the British Empire, a scheme which eventually will embrace the whole world, have been received by Mr. A. E. Reoch, secretary treasurer of the Canadian Marconia Company, Limited, here.

The plan embraces high power stations at various strategic points within the Empire by which messages can be taken and forwarded, so that the British Empire will eventually become independent of cables. The importance of this plan is very great, as it would mean that in case of war with any power the British authorities would be able to go ahead with their plans whether the cables were cut or not, and could keep in close communication with the fleet anywhere between London and Hong-kong.

The communication received by Mr. Reoch states that the Imperial postmaster general, acting on behalf of His Majesty's government and the governments of the dominions and colonies, has accepted the conditions proposed by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company for the construction of all the long distance wireless stations required for the Imperial wireless scheme. This is along the lines agreed to at the conference of June of last year, when representatives of the various colonies and of the Imperial government agreed that the project was practicable.

According to the plans announced the stations will be operated for the first six months on account of the government by the Marconi Company, and after that will be taken over by the government. The company will be paid a certain sum for each station exclusive of sites, foundation and buildings. It is further provided that the company shall receive a certain percentage of the gross receipts of all the stations during the term of the agreement, which is for twenty-eight years. The Imperial government, however, has the right to terminate the agreement at the expiration of eighteen years, in which case, however, it would lose the right to use any of the Marconi patents.

While the scheme has big commercial possibilities, it is from an Imperial point of view that the colonial governments, but it will obtain a more speedy and reliable communication with the fleet. All the vessels are equipped with wireless, and in this way the warships on the Pacific will be brought within almost as close touch with the Admiralty as the fleet sailing in home waters; and as these messages are all sent by secret code they would be of little used to possible hostile powers even if picked out of the air by other wireless systems.

When a Man Marries

WHEN a man marries he quickly discovers his need of innumerable things he had never thought of before.

And the butcher, the baker and the cabinet maker have a new home to supply.

The new husband and wife must buy things to which they had previously given little thought.

A thousand marriages mean a thousand new homes.

Right here is a fact overlooked by many merchants.

They say, "How could it pay us to keep on repeating the story of our goods or service?"

If they could reach every possible customer with one advertisement—and if people didn't forget—there might be no object in "keeping everlastingly at it."

But because every possible customer does not read every advertisement, you must repeat.

And because these thousands of new homes are every day coming into existence, continuous advertising brings increased results.

Advertising is the key that opens the door of these new homes to your goods.

Is Advertising on your key-ring?

Perhaps some people knew your goods or your store five or ten years ago. Since then new generations have come into existence.

The boy of to-day is the man who will sign the cheques to-morrow. To-day your advertisements are of small interest to him. To-morrow he is your customer, if you solicit his trade through advertising.

Every day thousands of people discover for the first time their need of your kind of goods.

Will you be there every day with your bid for their business?

Or will you leave the field to your competitors?

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any good advertising agency or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.
