Girl Cyclings New War Jobs

Thousands Of Trained Women Will Act As Messengers In Emergencies

LONDON, July 16: (CP)— New war duties have been found for girls who can ride bicycles—from 20 to 30 miles an evening.

Appeals have been issued for girl cyclists to serve as police and Air Raid Precaution messengers. And in making the announcement, A. P. Chamberlain, secretary of the National Cyclists Union said "we estimate we shall be able to get 8,000 to 10,000 trained women within a week."

The girls wearing armbands and riding "bikes" will work in 30 different areas in the event of disrupted communications.

RED CROSS News Notes

All Canadian Red Cross supplies going overseas at the present time are shipped to Great Britain as it is impossible for the Canadian or British Red Cross to make shipments to other parts of Europe," says Dr. Fred W. Routley, national commissioner Red Cross. "Blankets contributed to the Canadian Red Cross Society during its recent appeal have not been sent to France. Although these blankets were intended for the suffering refugees and wounded soldiers of that country, we could not take a chance on their falling into German hands," he continued. "The first shipment had been authorized before the French armistice but we were able to divert the blankets to England, where they will be stored until needed. The remainder, about 60,000 will be held in Canada." Dr. Routley gave assurance that every blanket contributed would be needed in days to come. Already, the Canadian Red Cross had been asked by the Dominion government to loan a quantity of blankets to equip colonist cars carrying overseas children to destinations in Canada. "We shall have blankets sheets, pillow cases, towels and other necessities waiting for the children at the port of arrival," Dr. Routley said. Among the blankets contributed during the Canadian Red Cross appeal were 20,000 from the paper companies of Canada.

WILLKIE IS SPEEDSTER

Nominee For U. S. President Had Hurry-up Courtship

RUSHVILLE, Ind., July 16: (CP)—Wendell Willkie's mother remarked in 1917, when the man who stampeded the Republican Party to nomination for president of the United States was on the trail of his bride-to-be:

"So you're the girl Wendell's going to marry?"

Mrs. Willkie was talking to Edith Wilk, spunky, fair-haired, blue-eyed girl from Rushville, just a few miles from Elwood, the Willkie home town.

Edith Wilk stammered, blushed. "Oh, no, no," she protested. "It must must be a mistake. I've just met him. And—well, I never heard anything about it."

"No mistake," laughed Mrs. Wilkie. "Wendell's got it all settled. He's told me he had met the girl he was going to marry. He said it would be so easy because your name is already Wilk."

This was Edith Wilk's introduction to life with that man-always-in-a-hurry who, then, never seemed to known where he was going.

Aunt's Prophecy

Later on, in 1918, after Wendell had volunteered and before he went to France with the field artillery, she went to training camp to visit her fiancee. Her aunt went along as a chaperone and it was the aunt who came away starry-eyed.

"He's—why he's going to be a great man," said auntie. The Wilkies were married before "Win" went to France.

"Win" Willkie had a way with people, only in his youth he was always messing up his promising future with escapades that made even good friends despair. There was the time, when, as college pranksters, he and his brother took on the whole police force of Bloomington, Indiana, with their bare fists—and landed in jail.

All biographers of Wendell Willkie tell you of the Willkie family beginnings. All four of Willkie's Protestant grandparents were chased out of Germany when the Democrats lost the revolution of 1848.

Wendell Willkie's mother, Henrietta Tusch Willkie, was one of the first women admitted to the Indiana bar. She practised law in partnership with her husband, Herman Francis, also in the profession.

Papers Out Early During This Summer

It has been decided to get the Daily News out early during the summer months. That makes it very difficult to make changes in advertisements that come in late. All copy for new advertisements or for changes should be in the Daily News office the day before publication. Reports of overnight meetings for publication should also be in early, preferably the night before, to insure publication.

Announcements

All advertisements in this column will be charged for a full month at 25c a word.

Is Married At Prince Albert

Miss Annie Walker R.N. Becomes Bride Of Allan Morgan In Ceremony In Saskatchewan City

The marriage took place recently in St. Alban's Anglican Cathedral at Prince Albert of Miss Anne Mastyn Walker, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker of Prince Rupert, to Allan Morgan of Prince Albert, member of a well known and respected Saskatchewan family. The bridesmaid was Miss Hazel Ingram and the groomsman was the brother of the groom.

The bride, who lived in Prince Rupert since early girlhood, was a graduate of the Prince Rupert General Hospital training school for nurses and held the position of operating room supervisor in the local hospital before she left for McGill University in Montreal to take up post-graduate work. Later she took a position at Prince Albert with the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Bare Legs Aid The War Chest

British Plant Permits Girls To Put Stockings Money Into Savings

CHAPEL EN LE FRITH, Eng., July 16: (CP)—Management of a factory here has relaxed its years-old ban on girls not wearing stockings and as a result 250 girls hope to put $4,450 a year into National Savings by going bare-legged.

When they were asked to start a savings group, Gladys Thompson called the girls together and suggested working without stockings. A deputation persuaded the management to annul the prohibition on stockingless legs.
