1.-It's all very simple, now look back on it ... for years I was a chronic pessimist - doubted my friends and scoffed at their abilities. Gradually they left me for other company . . .

2.-! didn't care - a simple lot they were, not half so smart as 1. Once, in the club, someone boosted Vancouver products. "Small town stuff," I scoffed, "Vancouver isn't in it with the East." Then uncle came from Ontario.

3 .- That evening we chatted by a friendly fire. "Great place, Vancouver," uncle mused, "fine climata, and your water-it's the world's best. I suppose that's why your products are so good." I was suddenly attentive.

4 .- "Take rye whiskey," -- he showed me the clear amber color of his glass-"this brand was distilled in Vancouver, yet many Easterners prefer it. Pure non-alkaline water, you know, is important in distilling."

5 .- "But surely we have a long way to go!" I replied, taken aback that an Easterner should remind ME of this fact! "Not in distilling," he replied. "Test this rye with any other brand if you still want to be convinced."

6.- That did it! If I was wrong in one case why not in others. Could it be that, I was at fault? saw the light. Now I am a tolerable companion for a tidy group of friends—and all because an Eastern relation preferred Vancouver rye!
