POPULARITY OF HUNTING

Motley Crowds Assemble in England Every December.

It is a curious collection of humanity and horseflesh that is seen at the typical annual Boxing Day (every December 26) meet of hounds, writes an English correspondent. Occasionally sedate-looking followers on long-tailed blacks are actually to be found there, causing the shrewd suspicion that even undertakers make holiday at times, and it is certain that many of the ewe-necked, wall-eyed, roach-backed, cow-hocked, crupper-marked animals under borrowed saddles and in makeshift, home-repaired bridles, that are brought on to the scene, spend the greater part of their lives between the shafts. Cyclists are there in their scores; pedestrians in their hundreds. Soldiers and sailors on furlough seem to emphasise the all-embracing nature of the gathering.
One comes to the conclusion that for-locks was right when he suggested that, in the estimation of most men, to view a fox break cover is a sight more glorious than the Lord Mayor's Show; at any rate, the Boxing Day meet proves again and again, as no thing else does to quite the same extent, what an immense hold hunting has upon the affections of the people of Great Britain. The majority of masters, recognizing this fact, arrange their fixtures at the most accessible parts of their countries at Christmas time, and many packs last December 26 met in the market places of the chief towns within their borders.
Perhaps the most extraordinary Boxing Day meet of all is that of the Surrey Union Foxhounds at the Burford Bridge Hotel, Boxing Hill. Hunting is far from the Surrey Union country, though long threatened by the spread of bricks and mortar, and the Boxing Day meet attracts not only the people of the neighborhood but from London itself besides. This Burford Bridge fixture is a revival of an old custom, which had long lapsed before Edward Murray became joint master in 1907. Since then it has always been held on the morning following Christmas Day, and last year, in the second season of Mr. Murray's sole control, it touched the record.
One could count the people by their thousands. Not only was it the largest gathering of the kind in England, but probably the best-attended meet that has ever taken place in the whole history of fox-hunting.

Sam Langford, the Boston "Tar Baby," who has been matched to box McVey again in Australia. He has two victories to his credit over Jim Flynn.

FRENCH RACE TRACK

Large American Contingent is Helping on the Sport

"There never was a time when there was such a celerity of health in the training establishments of France. A great year for racing is anticipated there, and this is reflected by the large attendance at Nice races.
The stakes for the jumping events filled remarkably well and the early entries for the flat are excellent." Thus spoke John S. McDonald, well known in American, English and French racing circles, and who has returned to London from Paris and Monte Carlo, in a chat on the prospects of racing in France.
"Indeed," added Mr. McDonald, "there are increased entries in every quarter, and on every hand I noted progress and improvements on every one of their already superb tracks.
The large American contingent promises to materially increase the revenues derived from the pari-mutuels and at the turnstiles."
"The uniform courtesy extended to foreign horsemen by the French administration of racing is extremely gratifying to those who desire to race in France. It appears to be a pleasure to the officials to give all the necessary information and assistance to strangers and this certainly looks good for the sport on the other side of the English Channel."

ENGLISH BILLIARDS

Gray, the Australian, Again Beats Stevenson, the English Champion

Amid a remarkable scene of enthusiasm George Gray, the champion of Australia, beat H. W. Stevenson, the English champion in the second "test" match at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, and having also won the first game played in London, the Australian became the winner of the "1st" game, and $2,500. At the finish of the game Gray was also presented with Burroughs & Watt's cheque, $300, for the highest break, 839. The final scores were: Gray, 18,000; Stevenson, 17,229.

NO EPSOM DERBY BETTING

The Grass is to be Given a Chance to Grow.

It has been decided to close the Epsom race-course for three months in the year in order to give the grass time to recuperate. Trainers are accordingly deserting the old-time Metropolitan course. This has naturally attracted attention to the next Derby, regarding which "Scout," in The Daily Express says: "After spasmodic attempts to create a Derby market, the whole affair fell very flat, and most people will soon be too busy over the spring entries to worry about Derby betting for a while. When, however, it does come into prominence, I think that you will find Lomond hard enough to win a better favorite than Mr.
Jack Joel's game colt, although, of course, should White Star (in preference to Absurd) run in and win the Two Thousand Guineas—Lomond is not in the race—before Mr. Hulon's crack comes out as a three-year-old.
The supporters of Lomond will probably be able to trade on better terms than they could at present. Mr.
Hulton certainly stated in his Gimrack speech that Lomond would probably have several races before the Derby, but we have got to wait and see first how the conditions are at Epsom for bringing a good horse, to hand fairly early."

GOOD GOLF YEAR

Revival of H. H. Hilton and Harry Vardon a Feature of Season 1911.

There can be no question that the outstanding feature of last year's golf was the renaissance of Harry Vardon and Mr. H. H. Hilton. That they should regain the place they once held in the golfing world is not, perhaps, remarkable in itself, but the fact that their revival should have occurred in the same year is certainly a curious coincidence. For both seemed to have reached the zenith of their careers about seven years ago.

Vardon, of course, won the championship in 1902. At the same time he was in wretched health, and it seemed impossible that he could ever win again. It was about this period, too, that Mr. Hilton began to lose his old skill. In 1904 we seemed to be justified in thinking that the greatest of professionals and one of the finest amateurs had lost their powers.

The return of both men was as unexpected as it was dramatic. Of the two revivals that of Mr. Hilton was probably the more wonderful.
He showed signs of regaining some of his old skill last year, and assiduous practice and strict training this season inaugurated such a spell of triumph as has seldom fallen to the lot of any amateur golfer.

Sam Langford, the Boston "Tar Baby," who has been matched to box McVey again in Australia. He has two victories to his credit over Jim Flynn.

A GREAT SIRE DEAD

Gallinule Was One of the Most Noted English Stallions

Gallinule, whose death has just occurred, was one of the greatest English stallions of all time and the most successful of modern times, with the exception of St. Simon. The son of Sonony—Moorhen was not born in the purple. His breeder was a sporting tenant-farmer of Lincolnshire, named John Hill, who in his highest flights of fancy could never have dreamed of the fame the horse was destined to achieve. In fact, long before he had a chance of showing what he was made of Gallinule was sold at auction and did not realize half the sum the breeder expected. Later, Mr.
"Abingdon" Baird paid $25,000 for the horse, who proved a bad bargain, for he never won a race for his new owner.

It was at the stud that Gallinule became so famous, and his progeny included Pretty Polly, Wildflower, Santry, Slieve Gallion, White Eagle, Game Chick, Santry and Lesterlin.
Altogether Gallinule's get won $1,284, 000.

TELEGRAM THAT SAVED INDIA.

which contained among other objects, the telegram which illustrates Mon-gomery's great saying, "This is the famous telegram dispatched by Bren-disch on May 11th, 1857, which gave the news of the rebellion to the north of India, and enabled Lawrence and Edwards and Nicholson to take steps for the disarmament of regiments on the verge of revolt, and to make those brilliant arrangements for the relief of Delhi by which — and probably by which alone — the Mutiny was crushed out and Delhi once more returned to her British allegiance.
