Channel Coast in Entire Flames-Enemy Convoy Has Bad Time-Hamburg Hit Heavily

LONDON, Oct. 22.- The Royal Air Force was active yesterday in attacking enemy convoys in Channel waters. At Dunkerque a single raider attacked one convoy of twelve to fifteen armed cargo ships and dropped such heavy bombs on them that they seemed to be almost lifted out of the water. One was seen by the pilot to heel right over and at least two others were badly damaged.

Other enemy objectives at Boulogne, Hamburg, Dusseldorf and elsewhere were effectively attacked. One British plane failed to return. Extensive damage was again done to the enemy.

One authoritative report today said that almost the entire French invasion coast was in flames and the most of its ports were crippled.

Berlin admitted that a number of persons were killed in another heavy raid on Hamburg by the Royal Air Force last night. There were also British raids elsewhere in Germany, Berlin announced, failing, as usual, however, to concede that any military objectives had been struck.

The intensive British night raids followed daylight attacks on German shipping along the French coast.

AT HAMBURG

The Air Ministry announced today that British planes dropped tons of high explosives and at least 1,000 incendiary bombs last night on Hamburg shipbuilding yards where German warships are under construction. The bombers were handicapped by heavy ground haze, great searchlight activity and intense anti aircraft fire so, instead of attacking en masse, they split up and approached singly from different directions and varying heights. Numerous fires were started in shipbuilding docks and chains of fires became engulfed in one great flaming mass. Bad weather curtailed the Royal Air Force attack somewhat Saturday night but, nevertheless, Channel bases were hit and the fact that nine German radio stations went off the air indicated that offensive was being carried on even then. .. Since Saturday night there has been a great intensification of the British attack. CROSS CHANNEL FIGHT there was another spectacular cross Channel bombardment late yesterday with both British and enemy big guns taking part.

DIPLOMATIC MOVES

LONDON - Heavy diplomatic manoeuvres are going on in Europe. One report is that a Russo-Turkish military alliance is in the making. On the other hand, Axis powers are known to be exerting efforts to tighten their bonds with the Soviet and Rome said that the Axis would seek a new agreement with Moscow covering moves in the Balkans and Far East. Greece and Turkey have completed a military alliance according to advices reaching here.

ATTACK ON TORBRUK LONDON-The Royal Air Force launched a terrific attack today on the Italian Livyan base of Torbruk, Barracks and fuel tanks were hit. Elsewhere in North Africa the British were effectively active against the Italians, doing heavy damage. Land operations are comparatively quiet.
