CANADIANS UNITED

Canadians have never been so united as they are today, according to Olof Hanson, member of Parliament for Skeena, who is in the city following a long and arduous session. He says that the last two months has seen a very considerable change in the attitude of some of the members. The son of Justice Minister LaPointe recently enlisted for overseas service and the desire to help the war effort in every possible way is general in Quebec and Ontario as well as in all other provinces of Canada. This is a very satisfactory condition for the country and the British Empire.

FIGHTING FOR BRITISH

The British are killing a few Germans but malnutrition and other causes are bringing about thousands more deaths than the British. National health reports indicate that there has of late been a great increase in the number of deaths from diphtheria, scarlet fever, dysentery. While the death rate in other nations has had a downward trend the German death rate has increased by 80,000 a year.

The policy of guns instead of butter is largely blamed for the result indicated. The self-sufficiency efforts accumulating war stocks of food, the devotion of scientific effort to preparation of death-dealing gases and high explosives, are the causes which have probably brought about a condition which has resulted in the increased mortality.

SEE FOR THEMSELVES

American newspaper correspondents have been given exceptional opportunities to witness air battles over Great Britain recently so that all the German lying tales are discounted so far as these correspondents are concerned. Stationed at vantage points they have witnessed many an air struggle and in almost every case they have been able to see the Nazi planes shot down either by anti-aircraft guns or by British fighters. These correspondents compare notes and they know very well that the figures issued by the British air department are correct.

AFTER THE WAR

Anthony Eden has a dream of the world after the war, a somewhat similar dream to that he had several years ago when he used all his influence to bring about an active and smooth working League of Nations. Evidently he was a little ahead of his time. The statesmen of the nations concerned were not ready for it. The United States Senate torpedoed it when they refused to allow their country to join in spite of President Wilson's advocacy. Then the leaders funked when Japan formed the puppet state of Manchukuo. They funked again when Italy grabbed Abyssinia. They practically ended the life of the league for, from that time on, it gradually disintegrated. After the war there will be a new international organization, probably under a new name and, by that time, possibly the nations will have come to their senses and will be ready and willing to co-operate effectively.

There will also be many economic changes when the war is over. The era of extreme wealth and extreme poverty will end and that will end the agitation for revolutionary governmental changes. Britain will be much more democratic than ever before. Many of the castles in Britain will be turned over to the government to be kept as historical relics of an age that is past. Huge estates will undoubtedly be broken up and the whole mode of life of the people of the countryside will be changed.

In Canada and United States there will also be many changes but those are self-evident. Most of the changes will be brought about gradually although we must not expect heaven to arrive all at once.

SPORT CHAT

Earl McCready, Canadian wrestler who claimed the British Empire heavyweight wrestling title after defeating Jack Taylor in Canada in 1933, has at last lost his crown to John Katan after defending it successfully for seven years. In the meantime the Amulet, Sask. athlete has wrestled in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, England and South Africa and has never been defeated in a title bout. McCready was defeated in a match at Wellington, N.Z. by Katan who gained the only fall in a hard-fought contest. The new champion is a fellow-countryman, so that the title remains with Canada. He had four times challenged for the title in Canada and New Zealand, but had never before beaten McCready although he had a draw to his credit. He is a skillful, but not spectacular wrestler. He has successfully defended his title against several challengers already.

The Earl of Athlone recently was re-elected president of the Football Association in England and, a source close to the Governor-General said this is just one of about 500 honorary positions held by His Excellency. The Governor-General holds the title of patron, president or honorary president of hundreds of organizations, many of which are engaged in war work. But for the most part His Excellency's connection with them entails no responsibility. The Earl of Athlone has long been a sports fan and each morning enjoys a ride on horseback about the grounds of Rideau Hall and nearby bridle paths. His duties don't allow much time for witnessing sports events but a government house secretary said His Excellency might quite possibly witness some rugby football games in the capital this fall to see what the Canadian game is like. In England he took considerable interest in football.

HARD WORK AND WORRY Two Doubles For Men Are Played

These Are Impossible Combination, Said Walter P. Chrysler

NEW YORK, Aug. 20: (CP)—Experience with automobiles of Walter P. Chrysler, who died on Sunday, began in 1911 when he became production manager for the Buick Motor Company. He was president of that company when he resigned in 1920 to direct the affairs of the Willys-Overland Company. Later he went to the Maxwell-Chalmers Company and in 1924 became head of his own company, the Chrysler Corporation.

Chrysler has no set formula for success. He believed in courage, definite objectives and quick decisions. "If you don't have the courage of your convictions," he once said, "you worry. Hard work doesn't hurt anyone. But hard work and worry are impossible."

The huge Chrysler building in New York city is one of Chrysler's achievements. When he was born April 2, 1875, at Wamego, Kans., the site of the building was known to New Yorkers as the Lexington avenue goat farm.

Walter Perry Chrysler was the son of Henry Chrysler, a locomotive engineer, and Mary Brayman Chrysler. He was graduated from the high school at Ellis, Kans. and later took a business college course before starting a four-year apprenticeship in the shops of the Union Pacific Railway.

He was married at Ellis, June 4, 1901, to Della V. Forker. They had two daughters and two sons.

Chrysler died of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in Great Neck, Long Island.

Important Users Say

"Buy B.C. Products"

British Columbia thrives by its industries, and its industries are generous users of "B.C. Products."

Logging and Mining Camps were never busier than they are to-day. Employment and Purchases are steadily increasing, and Industrial demands for goods "made in British Columbia" are on a rapidly ascending scale.

The Provincial Government invariably specifies "B.C. Products" for the numerous Institutions which come under its care.

No housewife buys more carefully than the Purchasing Agents for these important users, who have found by long investigation and patient test that "B.C. Products" compare very favourably with imported merchandise.

Support the Product of our own Farms and Factories. Encourage the British Columbia Producer to develop and expand. Give employment to more of our own people. By far the major portion of your domestic needs can be supplied within the Province.

Jacket Protects Merchant Seamen

New Type of Life-Saving equipment Is Now in Use

LONDON, Aug. 20: (CP)—Britain's merchant seamen while working in dangerous areas must wear a new type of life-saving jacket made of cotton drill filled with kapok and tied with tapes at the waist. It can be worn without hindering their work and will keep the wearers floating for an indefinite period.

An official of the ministry of shipping, which made use of the vests compulsory, said experience had showed that in many cases there was not sufficient time for seamen to don lifejackets when a ship was torpedoed or mined.
