Mobilization Of Democracy - - -

Many Canadians have not yet learned what democracy means. In other words they do not realize what it is we are fighting for. Here is the opinion of the Vancouver morning paper in regard to it.

Speaking at a meeting which demanded conscription of manpower and resources for war Brigadier General J. A. Clark made this statement:

"No election or plebiscite is necessary on this question. It would be unthinkable that the decision as to how our resources can best be mobilized should be left to the ignorant, the uninformed, the slothful, the slacker, and indeed some who may well be enemies but who still enjoy the franchise."

We are not concerned here with the merits or demerits of conscription or, again, with whether the government should hold an election or take a plebiscite upon its enforcement.

We are concerned with Brigadier General Clark's contention—that it would be "unthinkable" to allow a democratic expression of Canadian public opinion upon this issue. For, stripped of all good intentions, that is exactly what Brigadier General Clark has said.

It is worth while considering this statement for it has to do with the very principle which motivates us in our struggle to determine for ourselves our own course of action. That is called democracy.

Is it "unthinkable" that the men and women of Canada, whether they be university professors or elevator operators, brigadier generals or service station employees, should have the right to say what they are going to do with their lives and their property? On the contrary, we believe that any move to take this right away from them is "unthinkable." Indeed, we believe it to be so unthinkable that we are presently engaged in a war with Hitler, who holds the 17th century theory that "the people are unfit to govern" and would enforce this theory upon the world.

If Brigadier General Clark is right what are we fighting for?

You see this statement, made by a brave soldier, comes down to a question of that. It searches and challenges our way of life and our ability to organize ourselves as free men and women to defeat the dragooned might of totalitarianism.

There were some worthwhile things said at the meeting which Brigadier General Clark addressed. But the ordinary Canadian citizen, while he may not be much concerned over the finer points of politics, is yet very much concerned with the practical expression of democracy as it affects his life and his home. And he is apt to take the statement by Brigadier General Clark as an unjustified slur upon his sincerity. Brigadier General Clark would not permit the "uninformed" to have a voice in deciding this issue. But who is to be the judge of ignorance and intelligence. Are those who agree with Brigadier General Clark "intelligent" and those who agree with Mr. King "ignorant?"

The task that faces Canada is the mobilization of democracy into a fighting force that will march forward to victory over dictatorship. To win for freedom we must be free ourselves. That is the only way we can do it. If we adopt anti-democratic methods we shall have lost the great thing for which we fight.

This is not just a war about territory or about national interest. It is something above that. It is a struggle to determine the future of mankind.

And we are not going to mobilize democracy for victory by suggesting that the people are unfit to have a voice in the shaping of their own affairs.

A QUEEN AND HER KING

Neither bombs nor threats of invasion prevented the annual baby show at Malden, England, from staging its annual pageant of beauty and selecting a queen. Here is "Her Majesty," posing prettily with her faithful friend, "King Kong." The queen is 14-months-old Frances Huggins of Malden.

DRY DOCK WINS AGAIN

Defeated Canadian Scottish in City League Baseball

Last night the Dry Dock battery overwhelmed the Canadian Scottish team with a score of eight to two in City League baseball. This score, however, was no indication of the evenness of play. The Scottish fielded a team which was hardly recognizable as the team which played against the Commodores on Sunday.

The breaks were against the Scottish throughout but they fielded a great game nevertheless. Cann, the pitcher, for the Scottish, although he allowed thirteen hits, showed that he has the goods. Some real ball from them can be looked forward to during the second half.

Bickerton, always good, pitched a beautiful game. The Dry Dock now rates as first in the second half of the series and aim to hold the lead regardless of the strength of the other teams.

The umpires were Alan Hurst, Y.M.C.A. and Randall of the Commodores. Cliff Leslie, Y.M.C.A. secretary, kept score.

The line-ups:
Scottish—Girianni ss., Bailey 3b., Bratus cf., Blesky 1b., Beaudoin 2b., McLeod lf., Cook rf., Smith c., Cann p.

Dry Dock—G. Hetherington rf., Beynon 3b., Bickerton p., Howe 2b., McIntyre c., Arlington ss., Simundson cf., Gillis lf., Warner 1b.

SPORT CHAT

Amateur swimming is again prominent on the sport program at the Canadian National Exhibition, and Canadian and United States swimmers will have opportunities of matching strokes along the Exhibition waterfront at Toronto.

Barker Gold Trophy races for the Canadian championships, one mile for women and two miles for men, are scheduled for Saturday, August 30. The Barker Gold Trophies are the most valuable swimming trophies in the world and have been the magnet in drawing the outstanding swimmers from the United States to Canada. These races are open to all amateur swimmers in the world.

The Wrigley Trophy races are a Labor Day attraction on September 1. They will be for the Ontario one-mile championship for men and women, and are restricted to Ontario swimmers, each of the other provincial swimming bodies having been given Wrigley Trophies as awards for their provincial championships.

Canadian National Exhibition junior diving and swimming championships will be decided on the closing Saturday of the Exhibition, September 6.

Although a continued falling off is noted, the sockeye run on Skeena and Naas Rivers is still holding up fairly well with boats averaging 20 to 25 fish. The average of humpbacks for the gillnetters is about thirty. Selnfish continue to be slow in appearing but it is to be remembered that this is expected to be an off year for pinks.
