Miss Dorothy Newcombe Winner of Contest for Girl Bathers

Miss Dorothy Newcombe is Prince Rupert's premier bathing beauty. She was adjudged the winner of the bathing beauty contest which was the centre of attraction at the Civic Centre Carnival in the Exhibition Hall last night. This event was responsible for the drawing to the hall of the largest crowd which has so far attended.

Six lovely girls, attractive indeed in their swim suits paraded before the judges on a specially arranged platform in front of the stage. As each appeared, there was enthusiastic applause inspired by friends and admirers. The task of the four judges was no easy one.

Finally the choices were announced as follows:

- First, Miss Dorothy Newcombe.
- Second, Miss Ruth Mollard.
- Third, Miss Elsa Kraupner.
- Fourth, Miss Iva Sandals.
- Fifth, Miss Annabelle Intermela.
- Sixth, Miss Sylvia Krause.

The judges of the bathing beauty contest were: P. H. Linzey, W. M. Watts, W. J. Scott and Cliff Leslie.

It was the first occasion on which a bathing beauty contest had been essayed in Prince Rupert and the acclaim with which it was greeted last night testified as to the popularity of the innovation.

test was the outstanding feature of last night's proceedings, the carnival features again enjoyed a large measure of patronage and many stayed to enjoy the dancing for which excellent music was furnished by Mike Colussi and his orchestra.

It was another good night at the carnival which continues tonight with a variety show as the entertainment and will conclude tomorrow evening with the Coronation of the Queen as the culminating event.

THRILL OF CLIMBING

Dr. Neal Carter Tells Graphic Story to Gyro Club of Conquest of Seven Sisters' Loftiest Peak

Thrills of mountain climbing where there are difficulties and dangers, where all that holds a person from plunging into abysses of rock and ice or into glacial crevices may be a half-inch lamp wick and an ice pick, where loose rock might precipitate a person hundreds of feet over a sheer precipice were told in graphic word picture before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday by Dr. Neal M. Carter. Others might choose to go through all sorts of inconvenience and hardship to get a few little fish in some remote stream or lake, a few birds in a boggy quagmire or an animal's carcass in the deep and damp woods but his fancy was to get satisfaction by climbing to the tops of mountains for the mere reward of accomplishment and seeing what might lie beyond.

Dr. Carter told the Gyros of his recent successful ascent with party of four of the highest peak of the Seven Sisters Mountains across the Skeena River from Cedarvale. He summed it up as a highly interesting trip attended with the mountaineer's satisfaction of scaling a peak which had never before been ascended. He also expressed hope of further mountaineering accomplishments at a later date in the same area.

The highest of the Seven Sisters, the one which Dr. Carter and party succeeded in climbing, has an altitude of 9150 feet and is the highest mountain within a radius of fifty miles. It is 8650 feet above Cedarvale and the peak is 4100 feet higher than the base camp of D.W. Mines Ltd. The ascent from the base camp to the summit took eleven and a half hours. It was a good deal more difficult and hazardous undertaking than had been anticipated. All those unconquerable obstacles, bad pinnacles, deep glaciers, sheer cliffs, ice gullies, sharp ridges, glacial crevices, loose rocks sliding snows, knife edge peaks, all climaxed in a dizzy summit where there was no desire to tarry even to take pictures of the scenery and of such nature that it was discretionary to back down rather than face a seemingly bottomless pit under an overhanging snow cliff. However, a few feet from the top a cairn had been established, recording the ascent.

Dr. Carter showed some interesting pictures of the climb as well as a fossil exhibit taken near the top which showed the imprint of fern at an altitude far above timber line and matching similar rock which was to be found in the low country around Cedarvale, indicating that one day there had been a great upheaval there.

Some humorous incidents of the trip were also recounted by Dr. Carter.

President W. F. Stone was in the chair and expressed to Dr. Carter appreciation of the club for the interesting discourse.

THE DROWNING CASE

Editor, Daily News:

Referring to your official account in yesterday's News of the drowning at Lakelse Lake of Holger Richard Valentin on Saturday las. I beg to state that the depth of water where the body was found was not 12 or 15 feet deep.

With all due respect to all who helped in finding the body, the depth of water in question was some 5 feet deep and about 3 feet deep where the lad first dove in.

RED CROSS News Notes

Fine Work By Group Of Girls—
Miss Thomas Priest's Garden Yields Tidy Sum—Flower Girl Doing Well

Over two dozen garments for the Red Cross represents the accomplishment of nine girls of Prince Rupert during the past five weeks. These young ladies decided a little while ago that they would organize a Princess Elizabeth Club for the purpose of doing Red Cross work. So they got together at Mrs. H. B. Wallace's home on Third Avenue, elected Betty Allen as president and Betty Pullen and Patricia Brocklesby as secretary and treasurer respectively and then set to work. The other members of the group consist of Mary Baker, Ruth Walton, Peggy Large, Peggy Pullen, Monica Holtby and Olga Zabudney. The club took the work seriously and their products are excellently made. Altogether they turned out fifteen nighties, six pairs panties, one woollen shirt, three woollen dresses and one baby jacket. These items are being included in the shipment now in preparation at the Red Cross local headquarters. A little more pleasant and warmer winter is going to be spent in Britain by a few more youngsters because little ladies like the nine above mentioned have kind heart and willing hands.

As a result of the visitations of tourists to her picturesque garden home at 1851 Graham Avenue, between June 18 and August 15 Mrs. Thomas H. Priest has turned over to the local Red Cross the sum of $48.04. Part of this amount was realized from the sale of artistically decorated shells, in the making of which Mrs. Priest is very adept, and part from voluntary donations to the Red Cross of tourist visitors to the garden.

Dainty little June Carter, who has been much in evidence around the tourist boats this season with her baskets of flowers, has turned over another $8.60 to the Red Cross as a result of the sale of the flowers.

DRAMA OF BIG CITY

"The Devil and Miss Jones," With Jean Arthur, Showing at Capitol Theatre

A fantastic yet realistic comedy of modern city life, "The Devil and Miss Jones," starring Jean Arthur and Robert Cummings, is the feature picture today and tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre here.

Jean has the role of a clerk in a department store where the employees are secretly engaged in an attempt to organize a bargaining unit in the hope of forcing the employers to redress their wrongs. She loves her job but loves more her boy friend who has recently been discharged as ringleader of the group attempting the formation of the union. His activities had reached a climax when employees hung and burned in public an effigy of Charles Coburn, the actual but never-seen owner of the establishment. Coburn, so angered by the insult, secretly joins the store's sales force and is assigned to the same basement department in which Jean is employed. She believing him to be a friendless old man, takes him under her protecting guidance. There is plenty of drama as well as comedy as the story proceeds to a happy ending.

Other prominent members of the cast, in addition to Miss Arthur, Cummings and Coburn, include Spring Byington, Edmund Gwenn, William Demarest and S. K. Sakall.
