War Savings Campaign - - -

The war savings campaign in Prince Rupert is now on the last lap. Some of the canvassers have reported quite gratifying results. With others it has not been so good. However, the anticipation is that the final count will show that results will be no discredit to the city.

As usual, various subterfuges have been found to evade commitment to the war savings idea. Unfortunately, there is an idea among some that, by buying war savings certificates, one is doing the government a great favor. With a few, evidently, there is even a feeling that to refuse to war save will embarrass the government.

There seems to be a lack of appreciation of the idea that, by buying war savings certificates, a person is actually building up for the future—saving money at a good rate of interest—and is thereby benefitting himself.

People who have the money to do so and hesitate to lend to the government to fight the war should reflect that the government has the power to and, if less painful methods fail, may be forced to extract the money from the people by taxation in which case there will be no returning the principal, let alone paying interest.

And, no matter what happens, war savings certificates will, in the long run, be worth as much as one's dollar bills or money in the bank.

We can see no sound reason for people who are at all able to do so not to invest in such securities. And for many it may prove a Godsend in the future if they even sacrifice now to save.

A Victory For Us - - -

While it was a foregone conclusion that it would happen, the "Lease-Lend" Aid to Britain bill has now hurdled the obstacles which had been placed in its way by the United States Senate and is now about to become the law of the land. Thereby, Great Britain wins a great victory in this war. By many this may be accepted as the turning point in the conflict. Time will only tell how great or how little the benefit may actually turn out to be on the long run. We do know that the enactment of the measure will make possible United States aid to the democracies in many important ways apart from the merely supplying of goods to beleaguered Britain which, according to general admission, needs them badly.

Now that United States has finally acted, making itself the arsenal and bread basket of democracy, we all feel better and are inspired—come what may—to carry on the fight to victory with fresh vigor.

If you have something to sell, a classified advertisement in this paper will soon let you know if there is a buyer in the city.

Here 31 Years

Strolling along Third Avenue this morning with a Daily News representative, N. Mussallem, pioneer local merchant, recalled that it was thirty-one years ago today since he first arrived in Prince Rupert. He came from Winnipeg, making the trip north from Vancouver aboard the old steamer Camosun, accompanied by his wife little daughter (now Mrs. W. W. Trotter), mother - in - law and sister-in-law. Mr. Mussallem at first was in partnership with his cousin, Sol Mussallem, now a resident of Port Haney and reeve of Maple Ridge. That was in the old original store on Fifth Avenue which has since disappeared following Mr. Mussallem's moving downtown. S.. of Mr. Mussallem's seven children were born in Prince Rupert. All are now grown-up.
