The Glorious Fourth - - -

This is America's great annual holiday, the day that corresponds somewhat with Dominion Day in Canada. is the day which the United States became a nation.

Never before or since was there a nation with as many problems to solve which started out with such high aims and aspirations and achieved so much. We may not FOR SALE—Dining room suite, ington, Long. We realize that on the whole the American people are more like ourselves than any other people in the world, not excepting FOR SALE sealed tenders will be even the country from which most of us sprung.

There is an organization in existence which is trying to bring about a political union of the British and American peoples. Also there is the most friendly feeling existing between Canada and the United States. So friendly are we that we are giving rights and privileges to our neighbors which our fathers would not have dreamt of giving.

Position Of China - - -

China has decided to throw in her lot with Russia, Great Britain and United States in this war and in doing so declares her solidarity with the more democratic nations. The difficulty is that so many times in the past the reality has caught up with the stories. In other words Goebbels is always well ahead of the army. But, except in the case of England, the army has managed to catch up.

The Duke of Windsor contributed a mounted collection of six stamps on a Government House letterhead with the signature "Edward, Gover-SALE-10 cameras, lot of it is claimed is the best seen by nor, 1941," and, in addition, there was a letter of His Royal Highness. The envelope, too, bears three attractive stamps. All of these items have been listed for the auction.

The mounted stamps, four of which bear the portrait of the Duke's brother, King George VI., consist of current high-value pictorials and the two-shilling and threeshilling commemoratives of 1929. All of these are Bahamas stamps and have a combined catalogue value of $13.72 but the committee officials confidently expect that the sentimental value, plus the patriotic cause, will produce spirited bidding with a realization far beyond the material price.

Donations of autographed stamps have been received from high-ranking officials of various British colonies and from prominent wellwishers in the United States and Canada, headed so far by Wendell Willkie. .The first donation from a
