Local Halibut Boats Still Engaged in Dogfishing—Lifeboat Equipment Arrives For Kvichak.

Some twenty local halibut boats which have been engaged outside the harbor in dogfishing for their oil content are still mostly engaged in that pursuit and, evidently, will be keeping on indefinitely, depending, of course, to some extent on weather conditions and other considerations such as market and demand. This has been proving a useful line of activity for the fall, keeping the boats engaged busy when otherwise they would have been idle. A number of the vessels will, of course, be soon thinking of annual overhaul. The dogfish liver price has dropped from 15c to 7½c.

Four large lifeboats and all equipment from Seattle were landed here from the steamer Princess Norah Thursday morning. They are to be placed on the United States Army transport Kvichak extensive repairs of which are now nearing completion at the local dry dock following the sinking of the vessel last spring. The lifeboats are at present on the government wharf but will be moved up to the dry dock soon.

George W. Johnstone this week assumed his new duties as wharfinger at the government wharf, a post to which he was appointed in succession to the late P. W. Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone will later take up residence at the government wharf.

John Moser, manager of Edward Lipsett Ltd., is sailing by the Prince Rupert tonight for a business trip to Vancouver.

The Native Brotherhood of British Columbia, at its convention here this week, decided to request the canners to arrange a price conference for the 1942 season about May 15 next year. This year prices were not settled upon until the very opening of the season on account of the uncertainty of marketing under government control.
