Stalin Is Ready - --

It is evident that Josef Stalin is ready to meet British and United States representatives with a view to arranging complete co-operation both on the eastern and western fronts. Possibly by the time this is in print the delegates will be on their way or in session. At any rate the Churchill-Roosevelt meeting seems to have started a very important movement in the direction of real collaboration which should have beneficial results.

No Fear of Collapse - - -

After reading or hearing some of the Nazi statements in regard to the war in Russia some people begin to fear that Russia is about to collapse and that the war in the east is nearly over. There is no need to fear anything of this kind. Russia has been forced to retreat on part of the front but the retreat has been carried out in an orderly fashion and each time there has been a retreat there has been a masterly counter-offensive that has been very destructive to the strength and morale of the enemy.

Different Ways of Life - - -

An article reprinted in "The Labor Review" makes it clear that the war now being waged is different from any war fought in the past. It is a struggle between two different ways of life and its purpose; two ways of regarding society; two ways of estimating the position of the individual in society; two ways of assessing the meaning of human life upon this planet. And between these two ways there can be no compromise. One or the other must triumph. One or the other must be destroyed. For they are not merely mutually hostile; they are mutually quite incompatible.

While among the Nazis the state is everything, in the democracy the individual is everything. The Nazis control what the individual shall do, hear, read, how he shall wor- TO RENT_Bright bedroom, choice ship, if at all, even what he shall think. Everywhere is re- location. Phone Green 830. LINE UP SPORTS ARE ROOKIES COMMENCING

Connie Mack Likes His Current Baseball, Football and Softball Team But Says Watch 1942's Competitions Arranged for

PHILADELPHIA, August 19: 0-Rookies helped so much in the Athletics' drive toward the American league's top four that Connie Mack is lining up a new crop of youngsters for 1942-and they're coming from the A's farm clubs.

The 78-year old pilot is enthusiastic about his current team-the first late season top flighter he's had in eight years—but he gets more excited about next year's ing. prospects.

This might be called the first season in which the Athletics have gone seriously into the farm busi-

"Father never believed in farm clubs before," explains Earle Mack, Connie's son and heir-apparent to the Athletics. "Now he's conthem anywhere else."

To that end the house of Mack has taken over a couple more minor league teams and they also have working agreements with Commodores entered.

Hopes of a royal Derby winner in 1942 have been placed in Big Game, a handsome two-year old who has been the pride of this year's flat racing season in England. Unbeaten in five races, this fine colt, leased by the King from the National Stud, has shown his heels to all opposition and in the opinion of his riders hasn't yet. been seriously tested.

The unbeaten Bahram sired this popular youngster and the dam was the flying Myrobella. He is bred to stay and his prospects for the future appear bright because horses of his size normally improve with age.

The last royal Derby winner was Minoru in 1909. He was the last of King Edward VIII's three Derby winners, following Persimmon in 1896 and Diamond Jubilee in 1900. The present King George had no horses in this year's classics but seems certain to be represented next year. In addition to Big Game, King's Scholar, not yet seen in public, has been entered in the Derby, while Big Game is on the list for the 2,000 Guineas FOR SALE Sealed Tenders will be and the St. Leger.
