NORWAY SONS CELEBRATION

The local Sons of Norway Lodge celebrated its eleventh anniversary as well as the occasion of Lief Eriksen Day with a very enjoyable banquet and dance last Friday night in Oddfellows' Hall. About one hundred members and invited guests sat down to a gaily decorated banquet table and after a brief speech of welcome by the president, Oscar Sather, and old-time Norwegian dish, romegrot, was served. The tables were attended by four girls, Magnhild Storseth, Astrid Pedersen, Ethel Knutsen and Violet Wick, all of whom dressed in Norwegian national costumes.

Contributing to an acceptable program which followed the dinner were Peter Lien, with piano solos; Miss Lois Judge, with vocal solos, accompanied by herself; Mrs. Anton Dybhavn, with vocal solos, accompanied by Peter Lien, Oscar Harveroy with humorous stories; sailor songs by Nels Gunderson, and remarks by Rev. J. H. Myrwang who told of Lief Eriksen's adventures and accomplishments.

From 11 p.m. until 2:30 a.m. dancing was enjoyed, music being provided by Mrs. J. S. Black and A. C. Cameron. Nels Gunderson acted as master of ceremonies. Another feature of the evening was the drawing in a raffle. Mrs. Ole Stegavig and Mrs. Paul Stegavig being the winners with tickets 239 and 219 respectively. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Chris Jensen, Mrs. Oscar Sather, Mrs. H. Helland, Nels Gunderson, Claus Aune, John Fredheim and R. Hundelde.

EDITORIAL

DAILY EDITION

The Army "Has Everything" . . .

The army CAN be "sold" to the people, says the Prince George Citizen. It "has everything."

It has better opportunities for ambitious men. In spite of the uncombated publicity of the air force, the army offers greater scope for technical expertness, and offers more varied and useful technical education. The operations of the army require more executive ability and greater organizing power.

For the man in search of an interest, even the infantry—one might say justly, especially the infantry—of today offers him a training of absorbing interest, varied, technical, co-operative, co-ordinative, to an extent far beyond that any other service, or any civilian industry, can offer.

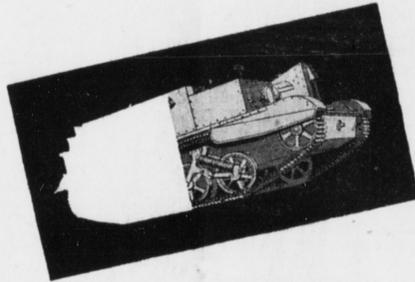

In romantic interest, the glorious history and coming importance of the army much outranks the fine but necessarily restricted activities of the others.

Many of the disabilities which at first attended enlistment in the army have been removed; others are in the course of reform.

Let the young men of Canada make no mistake. While the other services now are bearing the brunt of defensive action, the Canadian army will be the spearhead of the Allied triumph.

And anyone who thinks the Canadian army cannot be "sold" to the people of Canada because of the particular color of its uniform or because of past failures to do so, not only misjudges the people of Canada, but also fails to see the opportunity to do a grand "selling job" with the finest "merchandise" in the world.
