"UPLANDS"

Victoria - - - British Columbia

This magnificent, high-class residential subdivision was opened for public selection on May 1st and has elicited inquiries from all parts of the country. Applications for reservations are now being received.

"Uplands" consists of 465 acres of natural park land well treed with oaks and maples, excellent soil, gradually sloping toward the water of two beautiful bays, Oak Bay and Cadboro Bay, and commanding an unsurpassed view of the Olympic range and Mount Baker. The property has been subdivided and fully improved at a very large expenditure and is now laid out, ready for building, in 357 lots, streets avenue and parks.

Practically every lot has a splendid view which cannot be cut off by neighboring buildings. All streets will be paved with asphalt and laid with cement sidewalks and boulevards. Streets will be lighted by electric globes on ornamental standards placed at intervals. All wires will be underground and sewerage and water systems will be installed. Street car service will connect with the centre of Victoria in less than twenty-five minutes.

"Uplands" is in the best position to enjoy to the fullest extent the Victoria climate, the most equable in Canada.

FENCING OFF OUR NEIGHBOR

Final Work on Alaska Boundary Line Being Undertaken This Summer by Party Now Going North.

Vancouver, May 4.—The final stages of the determination and location of the international boundary line between Canada and Alaska along the 141st meridian as far north as the Arctic Ocean will be completed this season by a Dominion government survey party in charge of J. D. Craig, a veteran surveyor who is here outfitting for the expedition. Mr. Craig will be accompanied by forty or fifty persons, to be distributed into four sub-parties, to be occupied in various phases of the work. A gap of thirty miles only remains to be determined to bring the boundary to the shores of the Arctic. The surveyors left on the Princess May for Skagway, en route to the polar basin.

Mr. Craig arrived yesterday from Ottawa, accompanied by his chief assistants. Survey sub-parties will be in charge of Frederick Lambert and D. H. Nelles, while the monumenting work will be entrusted to parties under the direction of Thomas Reilly and E. T. Doccoeli. Twenty-five pack horses will be shipped north by the Princess Ena. At White Horse they will be augmented by fifty other horses which were used for the work last season, and which wintered in White River in the lower Yukon.

The Craig party will be accompanied as far north as Rampart House by a Dominion geological survey party in charge of D. D. Cairns, who is now en route from Ottawa. Mr. Cairns will work between the Porcupine and the Yukon rivers, completing the task started last season.

RUSH TO ALBERTA

Five Hundred Settlers in a Few Days.

Edmonton, May 6.—In the last two days upward of five hundred settlers have arrived for various points in Alberta. A large number of them were arrivals on home seekers' trains from the United States and the balance are English and Scotch farmers.

Sixty-five were from the state of Iowa and amongst these were T. P. Welch, W. P. Walker and H. Cooper, who are representing a very large farmers' association in that state, with a view to investigating opportunities for a large colonization plan that their people are interested in.

No petition has been received against the grading of Second Avenue and Market Place as a work of local improvement was the report brought in by the city clerk last night.

DUMB VICTIMS OF DISASTER; MANY FINE DOGS DROWNED

PROMINENT DOG FANCIER WAS DROPPED INTO BOAT BY MR. ISMAY—SAYS LOTS OF VALUABLE DOGS WENT DOWN WITH TITANIC—CONFUSION IN NAMES.

The appearance of Samuel L. Goldenberg, prominent dog fancier, at the French bulldog show at the Hotel Astor, New York, the other day created a furore, as his friends had thought him lost on the Titanic. His name had appeared on the list of first cabin passengers still missing, but it was learned that the mistake was made in the transmission of names by wireless from the Carpathia.

Mr. Goldenberg is a lace importer and lives at the Hotel Savoy. He is president of the Canine de Savoie, and owns many valuable dogs. According to Mrs. Goldenberg, many fine dogs were lost on board the Titanic, among them two Airedales belonging to Colonel Astor and a bulldog belonging to Robert W. Daniel which was sure to capture ribbons in this country. Mrs. Goldenberg said so many fine dogs were on the Titanic that a show was being arranged for the last day of the voyage. Mr. Daniel was one of the Titanic survivors. Very pathetic was the dumb sorrow of some dogs brought to Halifax by persons seeking to identify their dead when the morgue ship Mackay Bennett arrived. Prize dogs, bereft of millionaire masters who had gone down with the great ship, or merely the masterless mongrel whose faithfulness outvies that of the pedigreed thoroughbred, the poor doggies mourned the absence of masters whose non-return they could not understand.

To destroy those moths get Red Cedar Flakes at 25 cents the package from Orme, the Pioneer druggist.

It will pay everyone interested to look over the large new consignment of ship chandlery at Howe & McNulty's, 2nd Ave. E.
