RESIDENT POUND KEEPER NEEDED

Porcher Island Too Far Away from Townsite to Make Ideal Place of Abode for Ideal Dog Catcher for Prince Rupert.

Last night the City Council decided to engage a pound keeper who lives in the city. The former pound keeper was a rancher on Porcher Island, and though he did his work efficiently when he was on the townsite, and made $250 in three months by his commissions on dog tags, he has had to be absent during the spring. That there is a need for a pound keeper is shown by the fact that a certain pony has been arrested three times by the police lately. The nag was last caught rolling on Mr. McMullin's fine grass lawn at the government residency. It came in from Eleventh avenue, where its owner resides, possibly fleeing from what it took to be a bush fire out there. The Council will advertise for a new pound keeper.
