Canada Defended . . .

Roused by criticism that the United States isola- from the Chief Forester, Victoria, B. C., or the District Forester, Prince Rupert. lationists have been directing towards Canada, the Royal B. C., or Marine Building, Vancouver, Bank of Canada goes into detail in its regular monthly, letter justifying the war position of the country. The letter states that more than 490,000 Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen are enrolled and of this total 100,000 Canadian soldiers and airmen are overseas. On the basis of population this would be the same as five and a half million enlistment by the United States and the despatch overseas of over a million men.

The Canadian navy today includes more than 25,000 men and 250 vessels—destroyers, armed merchant cruisers, corvettes, minesweepers, patrol and anti-submarine craft. It went into action the moment war was de- B. C. Furniture Co. clared and has performed valiant service.

Since 1939 the Canadian army of 4,500 men has become one of 230,000 volunteers enlisted for service anywhere. Scores of thousands of these men are on duty in England, Newfoundland, the West Indies and Gibraltar. In addition the non-permanent active militia, corresponding to the National Guard of the United States, has grown from 45,000 men to a reserve army of 170,000 on call for duty in Canada as need arises.

The Royal Canadian Air Force began with 4,000 men. Now it has 80,000, the equivalent of an air personnel of 900,000 in the United States with the British Commonwealth Air Training plan operating 120 separate establishments in Canada. Already thousands of Canadians and others trained in these schools have done heroic work, many at the sacrifice of their lives Men are now being graduated at twice the rate originally planned for this time as pilots, observers, gunners or radio operators for duty in fighters and bombers over embattled Britain or Hitler-controlled Europe. Canada provides 80 per cent of the students at these schools, the others coming from Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain and other parts of the Empire.

Defending Canada against the charge that conscription for overseas service has not yet been invoked the letter says that this would be a serious criticism if on that account needed manpower has not become available. It is, however, a fact that the air force and the navy, which so far in this war have proved to be the more dangerous services, have at all times had a large surplus of applications notwithstanding the spectacular increases in personnel which have occurred in these services. Voluntary enlistments in the army have kept pace with all requirements and if there has been proportionately less enthusiasm for the army than for the other services it seems to have been because so far the army has offered less prospect of active participation in the fighting.

There was a danger of the ordinary Christian suffering from an inferiority complex. There was an equal danger of his suffering from a superiority complex. There was a subtle temptation to think as the Pharisee. This temptation was also apparent in social, political and racial groups. There was justification for thankfulness that people were not as others in some respects but the thanks could only be jus-

"Not much sacrifice, is it, when we think what others are going through . . . We've got to buy more War Savings Certificates . . . all of us. We've got to back up our fighting men."

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.
