AIM TO TRAP GERMANS

LONDON-Large-scale Russian counter-attacks on one flank of the German drive against the Crimean Peninsula aimed at turnabout entrapment of Germans and relief of Crimea's defenders was reported today by an authoritative London source. The British Broadcasting Corporation, interpreting the news, said it indicated Marshal Budenny was "making a determined effort to cut off the Germans now fighting in the narrow Perekop Isthmus. Front-line Russian dispatches said today that the Red Army had recaptured. a city and railroad junction of 'B" on the Karelian Isthmus, described as one of the decisive sectors of the Leningrad front. The Russians also reported heavy German material losses on the southwestern front where vast stakes are involved in fighting for Odessa, Crimea and the industrial Donetz basin.

Torpedoeing of Tanker Another Act of Piracy, Cordell Hull Declares

Four of Crew Are Unaccounted For-Vessel Was Enroute From United States to Capetown With Fuel Oil.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 4: (CP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today vigorously denounced action of a submarine in sinking the United States-owned oil tanker I. C. White in the South Atlantic. He said the sinking of the tanker "seems to be another act of lawlessness, piracy and attempted frightfulness in connection with a general movement to drive people off the Atlantic Ocean which is part of the world movement of conquest."

Thirty-four of the thirty-eight man crew of the I. C. White have been rescued. The remaining four are unaccounted for.

The I. C. White was sunk in that part of the Atlantic described as United States defence zone.

The vessel was enroute from the United States to Capetown with a cargo of fuel oil.

BUILDING MERCHANT VESSELS MONTREAL-H. R. MacMillan, director of shipbuilding, speaking here last night, said that a six menths' program for Canadian shipbuilding included 75 to 80 merchant vessels of 10,-000 ton class with a number of smaller vessels. The chief difficulty in shipbuilding was obtaining steel, he said. Otherwise, the industry was well organized. In 1942, Canada, for the first time in history, will be building more merchant vessels than Great Britain whose yards are concentrating on naval ship-
