Wonderful Achievement - - -

Appropriate to War Reconciliation Week is fitting to observe that two years ago, Canada's soldiers, sailors and airmen, including reserves, all together totalled a mere 68,000 officers and men whereas today, the fighting forces, including reserves, number 490,000 of all ranks.

Two years ago, the Canadian Army comprised 4,500 in the Permanent Force and 55,000 in the Non-Permanent Active Militia. Today, there are 230,000 volunteers in the Canadian Army (Reserve). Single men aged 21 to 24 are now being drafted for the Canadian Active Army on Home Defence.

Two years ago, the Royal Canadian Navy had but 3,600 officers and ratings and thirteen vessels. Today, the Navy has grown to more than 23,000 and 250 vessels—destroyers, armed merchant cruisers, corvettes, minesweepers, patrol and anti-submarine craft.

Two years ago, the Royal Canadian Air Force mustered about 5,000 of all classifications; today they number 67,000.

Two years ago, Canada was spending less than $1,000,000 a day on arms. Today, the nation is spending nearly $4,000,000. This year Canadians will put into voluntary war effort about 40 cents of every dollar earned.

Two years ago, war material production was next to nothing. Today, factories from coast to coast are mobilized night and day to turn out grim weapons of war, and about one-half of all Canadians engaged in manufacture are employed on war orders.

While these two years have been mainly for catching up with the armed dictators—preparing, equipping, mobilizing and training, Canada also has been in the thick of the fight.

In the British Isles today are more than 100,000 Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen. Over 1,200 Canadians have figured on casualty lists; 736 of them killed in action, 195 missing, the remainder dead from natural causes.

Really In War - - -

These figures make us realize better than anything else that we are really in the war and that the coming year is the most serious period in the history of the country. We have been doing a great deal but we can do more yet if we set our minds to it—therefore Reconciliation Week.

In Prince Rupert we have to realize that our shipbuilding is part of our war service. Other places are providing guns, ammunition, small arms, food, but Prince Rupert is doing its part by providing ships and fish foods. This is just as much war work as the building of planes. Hoping we shall win the war does not help much. The real test is how much has each one done and will do towards the desired end.

Modern Speed - - -

A rather interesting illustration in modern transportation occurred last week. J. A. Wilson director of airports, left Ottawa on Thursday morning at eleven o'clock. He arrived at Vancouver, inspected the airport and proceeded to Prince George arriving there and inspecting the airport Friday night. From there they motored to Smithers, inspected the new airport which is in course of construction, motored to Fort St. James and back to Prince George, proceeded to Watson's Lake in the Yukon and then home Wednesday and, according to schedule, is due at Newfoundland Saturday to inspect the big new airport there.

THEATRE UP AGAIN

Shipbuilding Company Would Like To See Another Amusement House for Employees

At the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce meeting last night a letter was read from H. T. Mitchell of the Wartime Merchant Shipping Ltd. as follows:

"At the request of G. A. McMillan, I wrote recently to C. Blake Jackson, deputy priorities officer, construction control division, Department of Munitions and Supply, supporting the general proposal for permitting construction of a new movie picture theatre in Prince Rupert. I explained to Mr. Jackson that such an addition to the recreational facilities of Prince Rupert would be highly desirable from the point of view of our program since there was a danger of the dockyard management being unable to retain employees because of their dissatisfaction with living conditions in Prince Rupert.

"Today I have received a reply from Mr. Jackson which indicates that he would be willing to authorize construction of one theatre there but three applications have come in and, as a consequence, he has had to turn each of them down. I presume this is on the theory that it would be a discrimination to allow any one of the applications.

"He also states that on August 16 one of the applicants, Julius Balshine, wired him stating he had decided to erect immediately a small theatre to accommodate the present needs. As the value of this theatre would not exceed $10,000 a license from Mr. Jackson's department would not be necessary.

"I should be interested in having your comments on this subject and any further information you may have. It would seem to me that a $10,000 theatre, unless it involves remodelling some existing premises, would have a small capacity and might have difficulty in complying with the fire laws of British Columbia.

"I should also be interested in any comment you may care to make on the housing project that is now under way in Prince Rupert."

John Dybhavn suggested that, as the Chamber had already given its views, the matter should be considered closed. The letter was accordingly filed.

Legion Executive Meeting Is Held

Reports on Convention and Display of Refugee Work Coming Up

The executive of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service was in session last evening in preparation for the regular monthly meeting of Wednesday when reports will be given on the provincial convention held recently in New Westminster. An additional attraction will be the display of the work done by the Women's Auxiliary of the Prince Rupert Legion for the people of Britain.

The president, H. A. Breen, reported on the meetings he had attended on behalf of the branch recently. This had included one held at the Moose Hall in connection with the provincial board of health. There was also the one held at the request of the city commissioner in connection with the Week of Reconciliation to be observed from September 10 to 17 throughout Canada.

Routine reports were presented by the various committees and these will be considered at the monthly meeting.

Those in attendance were Hugh M. Smith, H. Thrupp, S. A. Cheeseman, C. L. Barker, R. C. Bamford, J. Preece, J. M. Walker and Neil Cameron in addition to H. A. Breen who presided.
