Ultra-Violet Ray Lamp Here

The office of Dr. Joseph T. Mandy, resident mining engineer, has just been supplied with one of the most modern ultra violet ray lamps for use in connection with the identification of mineral, particularly tungsten in the form of scheelite, which is now much in demand for use in war industries. Samples of ore can be sent in on one day with results available the next. Obtaining of the new equipment will be of interest to prospectors. It is part of the all out war effort policy of the Department of Mines.
