WILL THERE BE AN ELECTION

The Toronto Star publishes a rumor which has frequently come from the east, that the Dominion Government may bring on an election at an early date and perhaps before the end of twelve months. Though there is reason to justify the government if it should decide to go to the country at an early date, there seems but little to warrant the prediction that the government will do what it should do.

The government should go to the country at an early date because its policy is so very different from its election promises. The Conservative party in opposition had a definite policy upon the question of navy, which the present government recognizes in no way at all. The government have carried out few if any of its promises made by Mr. Borden and his party when in opposition. We have heard much of mandates and such like, but if ever there was a government which did business without instructions from the country, it is the government at Ottawa. In fact, it is worse than that, for the country has endorsed a party with a certain policy and finds that that party, now that it is in power, is going directly contrary to instructions.

The government would be justified in asking for an early vote of the people because western Canada is not properly represented. The prairie provinces and British Columbia should have many additional members. Though the increase is not sufficient to make an election absolutely necessary, yet it is enough to justify one.

But The Albertan doubts if there will be an election at an early date. It is possible that the government may contrive some sort of a jingoistic naval policy and spring it upon the country suddenly in hope of winning a quick judgment. There is reason to believe that Mr. Borden has little hope of political conditions getting better for him in Western Canada. The people are bent upon better tariff relations with the natural market and the longer that the present conditions continue the worse it will be for a government which has no intention of making such arrangements. The election of Roosevelt as President, which is not improbable, will mean that there will be no lowering of the duties upon agricultural products across the line.

There is reason to believe that Mr. Borden is not very enthusiastic about the policy of government operation of the Hudson's Bay railway. The party is in trouble in Quebec and as time goes on the trouble will be aggravated.

So it is not a bad guess that the party would have greater chances of success if it went to the people in a short time than if it continued for three or four years.

The country, however, is not demanding an election. The people for the most part are tired of elections. They are rather anxious to watch the workings of the government before passing final judgment upon it. We could get along very well for a couple of years without an election.—Calgary Albertan.

MOTHERS DRAW LOTS FOR A BABY

Loving Parent Found Easily for the Little One Who Was Born Ten Minutes After His Mother Died.

New York, May 30.—The problem of how the week old baby boy, whose mother, Mrs. Rebecca Lipschitz, of 804 East 107th street, died of apoplexy ten minutes before he was brought into the world, should be fed and cared for has been solved for the physicians of the Fordham Hospital by Mrs. Victor Britt, of 657 East 226th street, a patient in the hospital.

Mrs. Britt's baby died in the hospital and the distracted mother yearned for a little infant to take to her heart. Other women patients in the hospital had asked to care for the week old orphan. The climax was reached yesterday when six of the women, including Mrs. Britt, insisted that one of them should be allowed to look after the baby. It was arranged that they should draw lots for the boy. Mrs. Britt was the lucky one and a lonely baby and a lonely mother were made happy.

Dr. A. G. Shorr, the house surgeon, said that the little boy of posthumous birth was doing remarkably well. He has gained considerably in weight and seems to thrive in every way.

Since the Herald's account of how the baby was born there have been many visitors at the hospital to see him. Hundreds of persons have visited the institution to see relatives and friends and before leaving the building insisted on seeing the little posthumous baby.

Rogers' grand prize ticket drawing will take place tomorrow night, Saturday, June 1st, at the Westholme Opera House. The drawing will be in charge of Mr. Fred Stork.

Sold in bulk by quart or pint, delicious, refreshing hot weather necessity, ice cream at Keeley's.

STRANGE DIVORCE REASONS; HUSBAND WHO WAS TOO KIND

MANY AND VARIED ARE THE CAUSES HELD SUFFICIENT IN THE LAW COURTS FOR THE DISSOLUTION OF THE BOND THAT NO MAN IS SUPPOSED TO SEVER.

Some remarkable figures relating to divorce in America were issued some time ago, when it was stated that in the last twenty years nearly 1,000,000 divorces had been granted in that country. As a matter of fact, there are more divorces in the United States each year than in all the rest of the world put together. To people in this country, no doubt, the figures are somewhat startling, but when the number of grounds on which divorces can be obtained in America are considered, this record in the breaking of the marriage tie does not appear so extraordinary.

Strange Causes.

Each state has its own divorce laws. In Kentucky, for instance, it is possible for a woman to divorce her husband if he habitually indulges in violent and ungovernable temper, while in Maine and North Dakota divorce is granted for intoxication from the use of opium, cocaine, chloral and other narcotics.

A peculiar cause is that which exists in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, in which states one may be divorced for belonging for three years to any religious sect which believes marriage to be unlawful. For maliciously turning his wife out of doors a husband in North Carolina, obtained a legal separation, while several cases have occurred in Utah in which husbands and wives have secured release from the matrimonial bond because they could not live together in peace and union.

Taking advantage of the Pennsylvania divorce laws, a husband was recently successful in obtaining a divorce from his wife because by her cruel and barbarous treatment she had rendered his position intolerable.

Other Cases.

Habitual drunkenness and failure to support are also recognized in many of the states as sufficient grounds on which a woman may obtain a divorce from her husband, while "mental incapacity at the time of marriage" is a cause in Georgia. The courts of the latter state, however, only grant divorces after the concurrent verdict of two separate juries sitting at different times.

At Washington a short time ago a judge of the local divorce court held that absence of the husband's morning and evening kiss constituted a cruelty and was calculated to make a woman's life miserable in the extreme and granted a divorce to the wife; while only the other day a resident in Irvington, California, obtained a divorce from his wife, who deserted him years ago because she said she was unable to endure his perfections. According to his evidence, the husband gave his wife every luxury within his means, placed no restraints upon her amusements, and never showed jealousy. He never spoke an unkind word, and never used liquor, tobacco or profanity and never stayed out late at night.

"Didn't she find fault with you?" asked the judge.

"Oh, yes," replied the husband. "She frequently said she could have loved me if only I beat her, or at least scolded her, once in a while; but I couldn't do it."

Church of England services will be resumed at St. Peter's, Seal Cove, on Sunday evening next at 7:30. Everyone is invited. Rev. William J. H. Petter.
