Oddities In Mathematics

Diverting Discourse by Dr. Neal M. Carter at Gyro Club Luncheon

Dr. Neal M. Carter, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, showed proclivities as a mathematical wizard and gave the Prince Rupert Gyro Club some diverting entertainment of novel character at luncheon Wednesday when he took "Probabilities" as the subject of a luncheon discourse. Using a chart, he first showed the probabilities of certain playing card combinations and occurrences. Then he traced the development of the pi ratio in geometry. Some mathematical tricks proved particularly interesting. Among certain strange facts Dr. Carter revealed was one that the thirteenth of a month had been found to be more likely to fall on a Friday than on any other day and that, if the birthdays of twenty-three persons were selected at random, the likelihood was that those of at least two would fall on the same day of the month. Dr. Carter also referred to certain adherences of Nature to mathematical laws.

George L. Rorie, president of the club, was in the chair at the luncheon and Lieut. H. G. Kennedy was a guest.
