ter the war.

Mr. Cameron lauded the New Zealan's principle that no one should be worse off by going to off by not going and that no one should profit from the war.

was danger of a dictatorship whereby powerful industrialists and capitalists were given more power with state authority. There were people in Canada who could be quite as ruthless and oppressive as the Nazi leaders of Germany.

Laoor organization had a heavy national responsibility in Canada. As the time approached close that labor would have the opportunity of putting its program into operation, it was fitting that i should take an anxious view of things. It was necessary not only to know what to do but how to do it and the courage to go through with it. Not much progress would be made unless the people were prepared and organized both politically and industrially. There was no reason to assume that a new world would spring up overnight. Unless the common people accepted responsibility, there would I nothing but a repetition of history Youth Going To Hell

One had only to travel across the country to see a spirit of cynicism and an apathy in the armed forces about which one could not help but feel anxious. There were many young men who were by no means benefitting from their membership in the services but who were "going to hell" very quickly. It was a serious condition due to a frame of mind, a lack of ideal or incentive. Something positive and worthwhile must placed before them. Youth should not be allowed to go down in an atmosphere of cynicism and lack apathy must go.
