Armistice Day . . .

Twenty-four years tomorrow it is since one great war ended and today we are in the midst of another, outstripping the former in scope, magnitude and implications. While we honor the brave men of the last war, those who died and those who are still with us, not forgetting the men of this war, many of whom have also died and many more of whom stand ready to die, let our thought train on his return to his home be that we shall not weaken, that we shall not falter, but in Brandon. that we shall fight the good fight until a real peace comes, a peace worthy of the cause, a peace which will perpetu- Airlines, Newfoundland, has ar- Vancouver to attend the funeral ate and ensure the ideals and the things for which we rived in the city on holidays and of the late Elton Vern Daly which

It has been truly said that this is the "people's war." and Mrs. N. S. Stewart, Dunsmuir noon. That is what they have called it in Britain. That is what it is in Russia and everywhere else that arms have been able to reach and inflict their horrors upon civilians and soldiers alike.

It well behoves us tomorrow to again honor those men who fought and died between 1914 and 1918, thinking that their sacrifices would have finished the job for all time.

We are all of us engaged in another great undertaking of liberation and idealism. Tomorrow we will be too busy to long lay down our tools but we'will not be too (262) busy to reflect upon those things for which they fought and for which fight and to resolve that everything we can do to carry on to a successful culmination the task for which so many have already fought and died shall be seen through the utmost efforts of us all-each and every one—until the culmination is a real Armistice Day.

This actual example illustrates how this country's Chartered Banks help credit-worthy people to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country under the democratic system of free enterprise.

Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable profit. Chartered Bank profits average less than one-half of one per cent a year on total assets. Few, if any, other businesses operate on as small a margin.
