SHEARER, DOUGLAS

Popular Screen Stars Teamed In "We Were Dancing" at Capitol Theatre

With Norma Shearer and Melvyn Douglas co-starred, the screen adaption of Noel Coward's stage hit, "Tonight at 8:30," comes to the Capitol Theatre today only under the title "We Were Dancing."

Miss Shearer is seen as a daughter of royalty, penniless but game, and very much in love. The lucky man is Melvyn Douglas, also a scion of royalty decidedly on his uppers. Both of them are professional guests, living in luxury at the homes of wealthy Americans who glorify titles.

The couple marries but fares badly as a visiting team. Society wants them single as partners for extra guests. Accordingly they pretend to be unmarried and visit secretly, but the arrangement is shattered by Gail Patrick, a society decorator who is in love with Douglas. She manages to split the pair and Lee Bowman, who was engaged to the pretty foreigner before her marriage to Douglas, manoeuvres a divorce.

Meanwhile, Douglas goes to work as a decorator and one of his first chores is to design the home which Bowman and Miss Shearer are to occupy after their marriage. There is amusing irony in the situation, but he goes through with it until he meets his ex-wife and the old flame revives. It turns out that she wanted him to get a job in the first place. Now that he has one, the status is quo and they're happily married.

Marjorie Main, Reginald Owen, Alan Mowbray, Florence Bates, Heather Thatcher, Connie Gilchrist and Nella Walker are also in the cast.

Hidden score, Bill Kyle, 158.

All indications point to a very successful season for the trundlers.

CAPITOL

Massett Inlet, the south end of the Queen Charlotte Islands, the west coast of Banks Island and Rivers and Smith's Inlet are the only areas in Prince Rupert district which are still open to net salmon fishing. Owing to lack of rain and low water in the streams, there has not been a sufficient escapement of fish to the spawning grounds so far and, accordingly, other areas still remain closed to fishing.
