Peace River Oil . . .

The offer of the provincial government to turn over the Peace River oil resources to the Dominion for the duration and one year after is an admirable gesture. Incidentally, if the offer is accepted, it will relieve the provincial administration of the responsibility of deciding whether or not private interests shall become identified with the development of the resource.

Of course, no oil is as yet available in the Peace River, the ground being so far only in the drill testing stage. Conceivably, however, and the former premier, T. D. Pattullo, has always been very emphatic about his confidence to this effect, it may become one of Canada's most important oil producing areas. Whether or not it will be in time for the war is, of course, problematical. No doubt, the operations of testing out could be greatly speeded up.

Turning over of Peace River oil to the federal government would just be another of many other important contributions British Columbia, first through the Pattullo government and later through the coalition, has been making to Ottawa in furtherance of the war effort.

Advertising Is a Great Teacher . . .

What is your view concerning advertising? Whatever it may be—for, against, or unformed—the fact is that advertising is a truly wonderful factor in shaping for the better the habits and practices of most men and women. Beyond all question advertisements show us how to lessen daily drudgery, how to economize time, labor and money, how to increase our social acceptance, how to care for our bodies so that we shall have less illness, less suffering, and more strength for the doing of our daily work. Advertisements tell us what science, invention and discovery have done and are doing to increase the variety of products and services which singly and in sum provide markets for raw materials, for machines and for human labor.

Advertising is not just a selfish urgement of us to buy particular products. It is that, of course, but it is also a beneficient influence, a great teacher, a great inspirater, a great civilizer. So when you read the advertisements try to see in them more than the self-interest of the advertiser. See them as distributors of information about things designed for the common good.

Our life would be a very dreary and hollow experience if we had not the innumerable good things which advertising makes us know about.

Optometry Talk Heard by Gyros

Jack Bulger Interesting and Entertaining at Luncheon Wednesday

Jack Bulger was both interesting and entertaining in giving an informative vocational talk on optometry at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club Wednesday. He described some of the mechanics of eye treatment, referring to the physical features of the optic organ and how its function was improved by the fitting of artificial lenses. W. J. Scott tendered the thanks of the club to Mr. Bulger.

President George Rorie was in the chair and there was a good attendance of Gyro members with guests in the persons of C. H. Orme of Victoria and Rev. J. H. Myrwang of Prince Rupert.

Congratulations were extended to C. C. Mills, one of the Gyro members, on having become a grandfather through the birth of a daughter last Friday to his son, Ted Mills, who is in the naval service at Victoria.
