Here is a little poem about Prince Rupert which Carl Clay dug up and recited one evening. There have been many requests for copies of it though I maintain that it maligns a lovely little town which grows the fairest roses and honeysuckle it has ever been my lot to see. And when complaining of the rain, were any of you ever caught in a prairie blizzard? Give me the rain any

Prince Rupert

Tis the land of liquid sunshine, Where the rocks and muskeg meet, Where all the dogs are amphibians And the people have webbed feet

You can talk about your Venice With its canals and gondoliers, But if you live in rainy Rupert,

The town is flocked with redheads, And boy, it's very plain To see they don't use henna, They're just rusty from the rain.

The coffins in the graves there, Are chained and weighted down, So the corpses don't go floating And haunting round the town.

The wind blows there at 40 per, Like the cyclone loose from hell, And buildings shake and rattle Like no words could ever tell.

And if you like the smell of tar Or dead fish on the docks, For it's rain and fish and rocks.

"Great Man's Lady," With Stanwyck and McCrea, at Capitol Theatre

The family of the late George The sweep and power of a great country and the courage of the men and women who made its development possible, are unfolded on the screen in the stirring romance, "The Great Man's Lady, starring Barbara Stanwyck and On account of war conditions Joel McCrea, with Brian Donlevy. the Museum of Northern British which comes to the Capitol at the

The story starts and ends in current times, but in the interim it goes back as long ago as 1848 when most of America was a trackless waste. Barbara Stanwyck then a young impetuous girl, elopes from her staid Philadelphia home with Joel McCrea whose dream it is to build a great city

Together they brave the hardships and heartbreaks of years that yield nothing but failure. Mc-Crea is finally convinced by Barbara that he must pull up stakes, go further west to prospect for the Northern British Columbia gold, then return and pour the wealth into the realization of their dream. But McCrea loses the few dollars they have, plus all their livestock, to gambler Brian Donlevy, whose honesty is a come-on few suckers can resist.

Barbara succeeds in winning back their possessions from Donlevy who loses his heart to her as well. It is Barbara who discovers there the following year, then that McCrea has struck silverstudied at the University of Min- silver which eventually makes him nesota and received her doctorate a millionaire. DUE TO WAR CONDITIONS

Canada will now on, have to depend as never before on the output of her mines to fill the ever increasing demands for coal. Much of this will have to be from Alberta mines, but this will be difficult if not impossible if consumers wait, as in the past, for cold weather before taking delivery.

Do your part in helping to avoid a serious situation, by filling your bin NOW and keeping it FULL.
