MATHESON WAS GREAT CHURCHMAN

Former Primate of All Canada Acquitted Himself With Distinction In Many High Posts

WINNIPEG, May 20 (C)—In all his executive posts the late Archbishop Samuel Pritchard Matheson, former Anglican Primate of Canada, who is dead in Winnipeg, acquitted himself with distinction. His first rise to eminence, however, came when he was selected as coadjutor bishop in the diocese of Rupert's Land to assist Archbishop Machray whose failing health made an assistant necessary. On the latter's death in 1905 his previous record stamped him as the logical successor to the great western churchman as Bishop of Rupert's Land and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of the same name, carrying with it the title of Archbishop. This proved but a preliminary to his election in 1909 as "Primate of all Canada," again in succession to Archbishop Machray. Thus he attained to the highest office of the Anglican Church in the Dominion and gave for the first time since 1889 the Seagram stable had no eligible entrant for the Woodbine classic; Tabhim finished eleventh in the field of 14.

While the Kid, carrying the colors of Miss M. A. Kane, won the eighty-first running of the horse race track in Toronto two years ago yesterday. After losing many lengths when he swung wide entering the stretch, the game little three-year old came back to outrun Curwen from the H. C. Hatch stable and won by three lengths.

Have Six Game Margin In National League In Spite Of Defeat Yesterday

BROOKLYN, May 21. (C)—Although the booming St. Louis Cardinals needed only one run yesterday to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Bums are still reigning supreme in the National League standing with a margin of six full games over the Boston Bees. The Cardinals are now in third place but half a game behind Boston which scored a close four to three victory over Pittsburgh yesterday.

In the American League the world champion New York Yankees are again in the lead, but only mathematically, over the Cleveland Indians. The Yanks downed the Chicago White Sox four to one while Cleveland had its game with the Boston Red Sox postponed.

Philip Seagram bought Tabhim from the Jim Fair stables at Brantford, Ontario, for $1, four years ago and entered him in the King's Plate the following Saturday. The deal was made because for the first time since 1889 the Seagram stable had no eligible entrant for the Woodbine classic; Tabhim finished eleventh in the field of 14.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

There were some 130 passengers aboard the steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. Neil MacLean, which was in port from 11:30 yesterday morning to 11 o'clock last night northbound from Vancouver via Powell River and Ocean Falls to Ketchikan. The vessel, which had on board the usual large freight cargo, will be back here again tonight southbound.

The archbishop attended the now famous Lambeth conference in 1920, when the celebrated re-union appeal was issued. At this time he preached in Westminster Abbey, the second occasion being the formal closing of the Archbishop's Western Canada Fund. His Grace made an eloquent appeal to the assembled audience, describing the greatness and extent of the work and the inadequacy of the scattered settlers without help from England. On this occasion also at the request of King George he preached before their Majesties and the Royal Household in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace. The honorary D. C. L. degree was conferred upon Archbishop Matheson by Cambridge and Durham universities in 1908.

Throughout his life the Archbishop was always greatly interested in education. He served for a time as chairman of the advisory board of education for Manitoba, while for many years also he occupied the post of Chancellor of Manitoba University. Although generally associated with the "low church" school of Anglican theologians he always evaded controversies. In an administrative way many difficult situations presented themselves to him, but his tact and diplomacy were invariably equal to the occasion. He never lost that humility and kindness which made him loved by all.

Five Children
The primate married in 1879 Seraphine Mary Fortin who died in 1897 after bearing him five children. He married a second time in 1906, Alice E. Talbot.

Archbishop Matheson led a very long and very arduous life, a slave to his office. Trained and educated in the school of an earlier day, he did all his work with his own hand, never having a secretary to relieve him of burdensome details.

In the financial affairs of the diocese most of the business was in the hands of the executive committee. He had, however, an uncanny judgment in the matter of investments in the interests of the church, excelling that of almost all the laymen interested in the same affairs.

No one in the present generation in the Anglican communion had such a hold on the church. This was really secured in the 30 year period between 1874 and 1904 when he was so closely identified with the St. John's school, for most of the time as head master. Each year in this long period 100 to 200 boys were under his care. These boys scattered all over western and eastern Canada with the happiest memories of their master, and in the course of time many of them rose to positions of high responsibility and power in civil life, and also assumed corresponding positions in the church.

The archbishop also owed much to his marked ability in the pulpit. While not the greatest preacher in the Anglican communion, it is admitted from coast to coast he was the most winsome. Of a dignified presence, endowed with a genial wit and with the spirit of a good father, he at once won the confidence and trust of his hearers, wherever he went.

In 1930, when 78 years of age, Archbishop Matheson placed his formal resignation before the proper authority, and it took final effect on January 31, 1931. On that day within the hallowed walls of Stately St. John's cathedral, before a gathering that filled to overflowing the spacious interior of the edifice, he closed his active ministry in the diocese. It was a notable gathering, representative of all classes in the community, that attended the service.

Throughout his life the Archbishop was always identified in some way with St. John's College and the parish of St. John's. In his early years, however, he did a considerable amount of mission work, once the church began to exert its influence beyond the limits of the old Red River settlement. As a student and a young clergyman he took charge of the district round Rockwood, Man., and in 1876 he was instrumental in building the first church at Victoria, a few miles north of Stonewall, Manitoba. At different periods in his career he conducted services at Woodlands, Cook's Creek and Springfield and other points in Manitoba, and later for a few years he held a pastoral charge at Middlechurch, Man. During his young manhood also the Archbishop served as chaplain of the Manitoba Penitentiary, shortly after the institution was moved from Lower Fort Garry to Stony Mountain.

After obtaining his Bachelor of Divinity degree he took an increasingly prominent part in Anglican affairs. His advance in the church was rapid after this date. In 1882 he was made canon of St. John's Cathedral. Later he became dean of Rupert's Land, honorary clerical secretary of the conference for the consolidation of the Anglican church in British North America held in Winnipeg in 1890, clerical secretary of the diocesan synod in 1896 and prolocutor of the general synod in 1902.

GAME IS CRUCIAL

Signals and Fusiliers, Tied For Leadership in Soccer Standing, To Meet Tonight

In the last Gihuly Cup senior football game to be played, that on Monday evening between Signals and Midlands, the Signals won seven goals to nothing. It was a one sided affair.

The victory put the Signals into a tie for the leadership in the standing with the Edmonton Fusiliers. Tonight these two teams will meet and the issue as far as the first quarter of the season is concerned will probably be decided as a result.

A game scheduled for Tuesday night between Air Force and Area Headquarters was postponed on account of rain.

The detailed standing is as follows:

Edmonton Fusiliers	3	0	0	13	0	6

British Munitions Worker Not Satisfied With Less Than 60 Hours

HANDSWORTH, England May 21 (C)—The job was all right, but, complained 26-year-old Alice Strasser, the hours weren't long enough. After completing her training for munitions production Miss Strasser was asked to work a 50-hour week. She wanted to work a 60-hour week but the longest work week available was 54 hours so she has to be satisfied with that.
