Chlorination of Prince Rupert's Water Will Not Be Taken Without Protest

τοσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσοσο

Judging from general comment to be heard around the city, there is little willingness to submit without protest to the edict of the federal government that the city water supply here should be chlorinated. Possibly, a popular summation of public opinion is the view as expressed this morning by City Commissioner D. J. Matheson who asserted that, as far as he knew, the water of this city was pure and already adequate steps had been taken to ensure against its contamination. Mr. Matheson further expressed the opinion that, if it came to a point where chlorination was to be resorted to, the city should not be called upon to bear the cost.

A communication received recently from R. G. Wodehouse, deputy minister of pensions and national health, advised the city that it had become necessary to ensure that water supply systems throughout Canada do not become impure. From reports received by the department, the minister of health had deemed it advisable to request the city to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that water supplied by the city should be of safe quality t all times including the complete chlorination of all water offered for human consumption within the area of the city's jurisdiction.

The cost of installation of chlorination equipment in the recent water system here is estimated at $10,529 with an annual cost of $3,600 for operating it. It is thought that an enlargement of the water supply which has now become necessary will increase the cost.

Russians Continue to Put up Great Fight to Save Industrial City

STREET BY STREET Russian troops, slipping westward across the Volga River at night, were reported today to have driven the Germans from houses, buildings and streets amid savage hand-to-hand fighting in one section of Stalingrad as the siege entered its thirtieth day with the invaders still held at arm's length. At midday a Soviet communique said that German infantry, led by one hundred tanks, had captured several streets but "in other sectors all enemy attacks were repulsed."
