NOW IS THE TIME---

Give us an order right away for the amount of coal you expect to need next season. This will enable us to meet your requirements now or as supplies arrive.
It is important that you should lay in your coal supply this summer as it is almost certain that the dealers will not be able to cope satisfactorily with the demand next winter.

IT IS NOT HOARDING TO BUY YOUR COAL EARLY
(It is also necessary to place your order a day ahead of Delivery)

Old Time Songs Liked at "Y" Hut

Signals Edge Out United Services Soccer Team

It is like Old Home Week at the "Y" this week, what with Smiling Jim Corlett in town. Then Johnny Grey came in from Terrace for a day or two among the bright lights of Rupert. He says that they aren't worried over the possible banana shortage in Canada because after a man has been stationed in Terrace over a month he just starts to pick bananas that aren't there off trees that can't be seen, so what the heck!

My spies tell me there's a grand mellerdrammer in production. So far it's a deep dark secret but it should be good for a big laugh at one of the concert parties in the near future.

Funny how old songs still appeal to the youngsters. Ever since Toc H presented the neat little bungalow type piano to the Y.W.C.A. Family Lounge and several folios of old time songs were bought to go with it, there has scarcely been a moment of the day when someone has not been in there humming and strumming away. It is the favorite spot for impromptu sing songs.

Signals edged out the newly amalgamated soccer team known as the United Services, formerly the Area Headquarters, and the Navy, 1-0. It was a real tight game but play was hampered by the fact that so many trucks passed through the playing field during the game.

The Women's Voluntary Service Corps in Terrace have as part of their compulsory course the learning of such games as checkers, chess, cribbage and bridge, in order that when they do their hospital visiting they can be more than just ornamental. What about it, Junior Hostesses, don't you think it's a pretty clever idea?

—The Hostess.

cial attention to problems arising out of such employment.

Adequacy of the plans of employers for the training and retraining of employees to meet their requirements, such training being either taken directly or through the War Emergency Training Program.

Facilities for the vocational guidance of those attaining working age.

Increasing the supply of manpower for the armed services by the provision of remedial treatment of those who are physically unfit for military service and for industry by employers taking the extra trouble necessary to employ physically handicapped persons, modifying their employment policies as to age and medical standards, ceasing to discriminate against certain classes of foreign or other workers and by vocational rehabilitation, if possible, of the unemployable.

The utmost economy in the use of labor and its most effective utilization by employers. This implying the discouragement of "hoarding" of labor, training and upgrading the training of supervisory personnel, the reduction of turnover and absenteeism, the adoption of conditions of employment consonant with maximum efficiency, and the improvement of personnel management and industrial relations to achieve the maximum co-operation between all productive elements.

Discouragement of excessive turnover and absenteeism, reducing discontent, facilitation of necessary transfers, special attention to housing and transportation facilities, reducing of anomalous wage and other differentials and provision must be made for travel and other special allowances.

ARE HAPPY AT OTTAWA

J. C. Brady, first high school principal in Prince Rupert, and Mrs. Brady are enjoying life in Ottawa and were rejoicing a few days ago at the return home from overseas safe and well of their second son, Pilot Officer Desmond Brady, after a year's combat service on the western front with the Royal Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady, upon whom the years are passing lightly, were considering themselves greatly blessed that Des should have been sent back to Canada to become an instructor in tactical operations at Chicoutimi, Quebec.

The older son of the Brady's Flight Seargent Jack, recently was awarded his wings at Arnprior, Ontario.

Gwen Brady is now Mrs. Watt, wife of Lieut. Jack Watt, at Cornwall, Ontario. Kathleen is a registered nurse at Ontario Hospital in Brockville. Rosaleen is at home with the Department of Munitions and Supply at Ottawa and Pauline is with Canadian Industries Limited at Brownsburg, Quebec.

Mr. Brady is still with the Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa. He has completely recovered from serious burns he suffered several months ago when buildings of his mink colony were destroyed by fire. He has given up fur farming but raises turkeys and poultry and has a fine garden at his suburban home near Ottawa.

WHO HIT THIS NAZI SUB?

rather a busy day, the sister ship was without one depth charge to drop.

The combination was perfect.

The one who could listen led the one who could attack over the submarine and a couple of patterns were dropped.

There was no immediate reaction and a rather querulously bored signal came from the "deaf" corvette.

"Are you sure," it read, and a pained English accent could almost be heard in the flickers and flashes of the signal lamp, "that you aren't wasting my time?"

No Time Wasted

The answer, according to the teller of the tale, was quite peremptory, and the attack continued, so successfully that the next pattern brought the submarine to the surface. "Where," the teller of the tale concluded, quietly grim, "she was disposed of."

"But," he asked, "who got her?" The listener or the depth charger?"

His listeners chuckled.

"Who cares," one retorted, "so long as they are got?"

That's the job of the little ships, and it's a job they are doing very effectively, as their ports could tell . . . if they would.
